Enemy attack

Huge column of smoke rises into the air from the Shell Oil Co., petroleum dump after Communist forces attacked the area, six miles southeast of Saigon. The government lost about 50 per cent of its reserve stocks in the blaze and as a result petrol rationing was introduced Monday night. (UPI)

N. Vietnam forces launch major drive

SAIGON (AP) — Large North Vietnamese forces spearheaded by tanks and heavy artillery launched a dozen attacks across a wide area of the lower central highlands today. They captured parts of a district town and threatened a provincial capital, field reports said.

Government military spokesmen said that the attacks triggered major fighting and possibly were the prelude to a general offensive South Vietnamese officials have been forecasting for early next year.

Military sources said the North Vietnamese launched 11 separate attacks along a 28-mile front from Dak Song southward to the district town of Kien Duc near the Cambodian border and 90 miles northeast of Saigon.

Government spokesmen claimed a half dozen tanks were destroyed.

First reports said 45 North Vietnamese troops had been killed in the fighting, but there was no report available on the government losses.

Hand-to-hand fighting was reported in Kien Duc, a town of 3,000 population, and field reports said North Vietnamese sappers had seized the national police headquarters in Kien Duc and two other points in the town, which was in danger of falling.

The field reports said that 1,000 civilians, some of them refugees from earlier fighting in the region, had fled from Kien Duc eastward through the jungles to Gia Nghia, 12 miles away.

The strategic Highway 14 between Kien Duc and Gia Nghia was reported open but "dangerous."

Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, Saigon's chief military spokesman, said it was the first time the Communists have attacked a district capital since the cease-fire on Jan. 28.

Hien said North Vietnamese activity in the region near the Cambodian border "has created a very serious situation throughout that part of the country."

The North Vietnamese want to take Kien Duc, on Highway 14, so they can move on to Gia Nghia, the capital of Quang Duc province 12 miles to the east," Hien said.

"We urgently requested the International Commission of Control and Supervision to do their job to stop Communist violations of the cease-fire, especially in Quang Duc," Hien said.

Since Nov. 1, the North Vietnamese have been attacking government positions along Highway 14 to complete the 400-mile supply road they are trying to establish from the demilitarized zone down the the Laotian and Cambodian borders to Loc Ninh, the Viet Cong headquarters 75 miles north of Saigon.

South Vietnamese officials maintain this is in preparation for a general offensive during the dry season early in the new year.

North Vietnamese forces overran three government posts along the highway early in November, but the South Vietnamese reported last week they had recaptured one of them, Dak Song.

Military sources said the battle at Kien Duc started just before dawn when North Vietnamese sappers, moving behind heavy artillery and mortar barrages, broke through government defenses to the north and south and set up fighting positions in the streets.

While government troops were trying to root out the sappers, North Vietnamese infantrymen and tanks launched two more assaults on the town.

South Vietnamese warplanes hit hard at the North Vietnamese forces and by midafternoon were reported to have flown 70 strikes in the region.

Field reports said 25 of the North Vietnamese sappers were killed; there was no report of South Vietnamese casualties.

The Viet Cong delegation in Saigon said it had no report on the fighting at Kien Duc. But a spokesman said the area "belonged to the Provisional Revolutionary Government for a long time and was taken by the Saigon administration after the cease-fire."

Meanwhile, the South Vietnamese air force was making its heaviest attacks since the cease-fire on other Viet Cong and North Vietnamese positions.

The air raids today and Monday were in retaliation for the devastating Viet Cong attack earlier Monday on the Nha Be oil depot, in which officials said 20 million to 35 million gallons of fuel were destroyed.

Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, Saigon's chief military spokesman, said 124 bombers attacked Communist positions from the Central Highlands to the Mekong Delta.

"Our punitive policy is to strike at enemy military targets any time he commits a serious violation," Hien told newsmen.

Statement is focus of legal conflict

By JACK SCHICHT
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

The question of whether statements allegedly made by Kim Eugene Phillips Aug. 15 will be admissible in court is to be decided today in Boone County Circuit Court in Columbia.

Circuit Court Judge John M. Cave is presiding at the hearing on two motions: one to suppress evidence and the other to suppress information in the case.

Phillips, 21, is charged with second degree murder in the Aug. 13 strangulation death of Mrs. Karen Jones, 16. Testimony began about 11:05 a.m. Tuesday on the motion to supress evidence. Phillips' court-appointed Attorney Adam Fisher is expected to argue that a written statement allegedly signed by Phillips on Aug. 16, the day he was arrested, should not be admitted into evidence because Phillips did not make a voluntary statement and that he wanted to see a lawyer that day.

Fisher had argued both these points at Phillips' preliminary hearing Sept. 5, but Magistrate Court Judge Frank Armstrong admitted the statements into evidence.

Testifying at the Tuesday morning session was James Donley, Lafayette County deputy sheriff, who said that he drove Phillips to Lee's Summit on Aug. 16 for a polygraph test. He said that he witnessed the test, given by Corp. M. D. Buesing, of the Highway Patrol, through a one-way glass. Donley said near the end of the test Phillips told Buesing that he "didn't have to look any further. He had his man."

Donley said that Phillips later told him the same thing. Donley also testified that he read Phillips his rights on Aug. 15, the day before the polygraph test. He also said that Buesing advised Phillips he had the right to remain silent and could see a

Communities are isolated

Storm batters Kansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A severe winter storm punished Kansas today, closing traffic on Interstate 70 for a while and leaving 62 communities isolated from telephone communications.

The interstate highway, main east-west route across the state, was closed between Hays and Oakley for about three hours.

A highway spokesman said the worst spot appeared to be in the WaKeeney area. About 150 trucks were stalled east and west of WaKeeney, the spokesman said.

An accumulation of ice produced by the storm was accompanied by high winds to down power and telephone lines and poles and cause the collapse of a 240-foot tower used by the highway commission and the highway patrol for communications in north central Kansas.

The tower was located six miles east of Clay Center and was used for communications in a radius of 50 to 75 miles.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company said the areas hardest hit from a communications standpoint appeared to the central and southwestern portions of the state.

In the Salina district, which included north central Kansas, 127 poles and 150 crossarms were reported knocked down by the combination of high winds and ice.

In the Dodge City district, covering the southwestern part of the state, about 40 long distance poles and 20 local line poles were down.

The Hutchinson district, including a large portion of south central Kansas, reported 40 long distance poles knocked down.

A Southwestern Bell spokesman said restoration of service probably would have to wait until high winds subsided, although repair and construction crews had been dispatched to isolated areas to begin restoration.

The highway commission also reported Kansas 16 closed between Blaine and Wheaton in Pottawatomie County, because power lines had been blown down.

Kansas 4 in the Claflin areas also was reported closed because poles, trees and powerlines were down.

The highway commission spokesman said driving conditions were hazardous over much of the state. In northwest Kansas there was drifting snow and roads were snowpacked and icy, with some drifting reported.

In the southwest visibility was poor and roads icy and snowpacked in spots.

Roads in south central Kansas were reported wet and icy in spots.

More than eight inches of snow was reported in northwest Kansas around WaKeeney and Hill City, but most of the trouble was coming from a glaze of ice up to an inch thick and northerly winds gusting up to 40 miles an hour.

All but the extreme west and extreme east parts of Kansas were under a winter storm warning. Central Kansas was alerted for heavy snow today.

Snow already had let up in the extreme west, and National Weather Service forecasters said the snow, sleet and cold rain would end in most sections tonight.

Tonight's forecast lows, from the teens in the northwest to the low 30s in the southeast, represent 25-degree drops in 48 hours but are not particularly extreme for Kansas in December.

Among the points reporting widespread power failures and hazardous travel conditions were Junction City, Dodge City, Salina, Smith Center, Phillipsburg, Manhattan, Wamego, Ogden and Concordia.

Travel on Interstate 70 was bogging down on the section between Hays and the Colorado line. Spots of ice and packed snow were reported on stretches which were not covered by drifting snow.

School system is asking for funds

Federal Emergency School Aid Act (Title 7) funds are being requested for the Sedalia public elementary school system in several major areas, it was revealed at a public meeting Monday night between the school board and an advisory committee.

The areas to be funded are staff assistance, pupil assistance, such as health and counseling services; program assistance, including reading, math, transportation and educational adjustment.

The amount to be sought, estimated at more than $300,000, can be obtained only by school systems that are in the process of implementing a federally approved desegregation plan.

Should the funds be approved for Sedalia, they will not become available before the 1974-75 school year, and would be good for one year only, according to Dr. Allan Henningsen, superintendent of schools. The deadline for submitting the final application is Dec. 26, and word on its approval may not be obtained until March or April, he said.

As a result of Monday's meeting, the advisory committee made two adjustments in its recommendations: a request for $8,000 for rennovations at several schools, and improved health services.

Dr. Henningsen said the $8,000 would probably be used to convert one room in each of four elementary schools to handle the Title 7 program. He mentioned Whittier, Horace Mann, Jefferson and Washington Schools, but said other locations could be added.

A prepared statement given those present at the meeting indicated that a recent school needs survey showed the need for "in-service training of elementary school faculty and the acquisition of aides to assist the teachers in working with multi-ethnic pupils."

Such training, it was reported, could be achieved through teacher workshops focusing on ethnic awareness, or the needs of minority students. The objective is 100 hours of instruction for 100 teachers.

Among other things, such workshops would train teachers in "human relations, ethnic awareness, disadvantagement, and minority value systems and cultural qualities," according to the program narrative.

Sessions would be held at the Center for Educational Improvement at the University of Missouri-Columbia.

The funds requested, if approved, would

One would ban fireworks

Bills are filed early

BULLETIN

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Senate today passed a resolution to increase its working staff from 80 to 107 employes. Each Senator will now have two clerk-stenos instead of one. The extra one can work in the Senator's home district.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — This summer may be the last chance for Missourians to shoot fireworks if a bill prefiled today by Rep. Al Mueller, D-Kirkwood, becomes law.

The bill only allows fireworks to be used for public display. The bill would not take effect until Aug. 28 if passed.

Two bills to set the majority age in Missouri at age 18 were introduced today, but neither would let 18-year-olds drink or buy liquor.

One bill keeps the drinking age at age 21 while another allows 19-year-olds to drink and buy beer and wine, but no liquor.

Rep. Harold Volkmer, D-Hannibal, prefiled the reorganization bill he introduced yesterday for the special session. Volkmer's bill is similar to a reorganization measure that passed the House last session.

Other bills prefiled include a measure to outlaw pay toilets, sponsored by Rep. Mueller.

Others bills would — —Change the state general election date from the first Monday in November to the first Monday in October.

—Allow farmers to detain livestock rustling suspects.

—Create a Missouri State Capitol Art Commission.

—Allow voters to disband county planning and zoning boards.

—Hold tavern owners liable for lawsuits if they served minors or drunks.

—Repeal law requiring commercial trucks to show names and addresses of owners.

—Expand membership on the Missouri Tourist Commission from nine to eleven members.

—Expand powers of sheriffs in third and fourth class counties.

—Change dates when county assessors assume office.

—Build a meditation chapel in the capitol.

—Require all political subdivisions, except counties, to publish financial statements.

—Provide for adoption of the Missouri nonpartisan court plan in counties which do not have the plan now.

—Allow for more than one assistant prosecuting attorney in third or fourth class counties.

—Allow courts to order rubbish cleared from highways.

Monday, bills were prefiled to set a pay raise for lawmakers, reinstate the death penalty and impose a $100 fine for not wearing seat belts.

Nearly 300 bills had been prefiled for the regular 1974 legislative session beginning Jan. 9.

Drivers under 18 are target of bill

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A bill to lift drivers' licenses from all persons under 18 years old during the fuel crisis was introduced today in the Missouri House for the special legislative session.

The bill, by Rep. J. T. Howard, D-Piedmont, would still allow those under 18 to drive for emergency purposes such as the youth having to drive to support his parents.

The Department of Revenue would have authority to suspend the licenses and the highway patrol would have authority to prevent anyone under 18 from driving unless they had an emergency permit. The bill gives the governor authority to terminate the law and order the reinstatement of the drivers' licenses when he decides that an energy emergency has passed. If the governor did not terminate the law, it would end March 1, 1976.

Under present law, persons can get drivers licenses when they are 16.

The House received four more bills, bringing to 13 introduced there for the special session, and adjourned until 4 p.m. Monday.

The Senate featured another argument over who's boss—the Senate president pro tem or the lieutenant governor—and adjourned until Dec. 17. Technical sessions will be held Wednesday and Dec. 12 for reading of bills.

In the House, Rep. Robert O. Snyder, R-Kirkwood, and 12 others introduced the governor's campaign financing bill, which would make it a $500 fine for banks, trust companies, labor organizations or corporations to contribute to a candidate. The officers of the organizations could get a $10,000 fine or a year in jail for violating the law.

The seatbelt bill, by Rep. James Riley, D-Richmond Heights, allows a fine not to exceed $100 for failure to wear a seatbelt on a state or federal highway.

Begin planning for election next year

By JOE KELL
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Although the April general election is more than four months away, the City Council began making plans Monday night for a primary election to be held the first week of March.

Mayor Jerry Jones told the Council that it should complete action on the primary at its first meeting in January to give candidates a month to file for the primary before the closing date for filing, which must be 30 days before the primary is held.

Up for election in April are the mayor, four council members, the city collector, city attorney and police judge.

Don Broaddus, First Ward Republican, told the council during the pre-council session that the Industrial Development Committee will conduct interviews Thursday for a successor to resigned economic development director Bill Hall. Broaddus invited members of the council to attend the interviews, but said they will be closed to the news media.

Broaddus said possibly some Sedalia citizens will be interviewed Thursday along with one out-of-town applicant.

In other action, the council heard the first reading of a proposed amendment to the vending machine ordinance, which will allow businesses earning profits from vending machines to include these receipts in figuring their basic business license tax.

Second and final readings of the bill were delayed until the next regular meeting to allow council members time to become acquainted with the ordinance.

The council delayed taking action on a request for rezoning by Wilmont Caulter, 1701 West Ninth, and Earl Thomas, 633 East Ninth, to rezone property located at Ninth and Warren from R-1 (single family dwelling) to C-1 (local business).

Action was delayed until it can be determined if more than 10 per cent of the property owners located within 185 feet of the property in question signed a petition objecting to the rezoning.

If they did it will take six affirmative votes by the council to pass the rezoning ordinance, when it normally takes just five.

City Clerk Ralph Dedrick said there are six names on a petition against rezoning the land, although it appears two names may also be on one favoring the rezoning. Bob Fritz, city counselor, told the council those

Mini-train may come to Sedalia

Sedalia may have a steam engine train running in Centennial Park one of these days.

Park Board member Ben Pummill told the board at its monthly meeting Monday night that a Gladstone, Mo., man is considering donating a 17½-foot-long, six-ton steam engine and three cars to the city.

The man, Harvey Scanland, 78, built the trains and cars, at his own expense, over the last 10 years, Pummill said.

Pummill said he contacted Scanland Nov. 26 after a Kansas City newspaper quoted Scanland as saying he would like to donate the train and cars to an organization or community near Kansas City that would run the train. "He told me he would like to see the train in operation . . .before he dies," Pummill said.

Pummill stated that Scanland hasn't made a decision yet. "He's going to notify us when he does," Pummill added.

The engine is 6½-feet-high, Pummill said, and four-feet-wide. "It runs on a ton of coal and 300 gallons of water," he added.

Members of the Park Board indicated that if the train were donated to the city, it probably would be placed in Centennial Park. "If we get the train, I'm sure we could work out some way to get the rail," Pummill said.

The train's engine, Pummill said, is capable of travelling 50 miles an hour, although it has never run on a track.

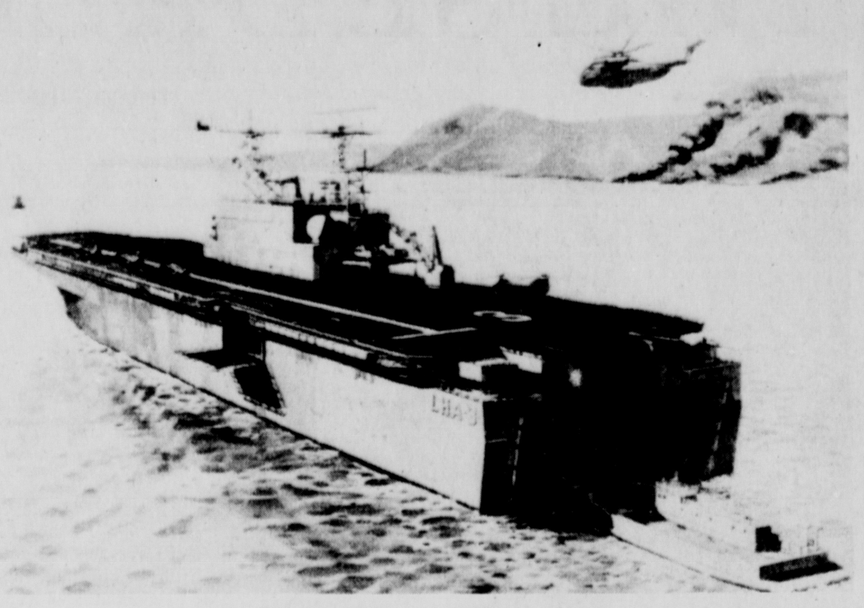

In other action at the Monday night meeting, board president Jim Grady appointed Pummill to head a committee to look into the energy situation at city parks. Other members of the committee are Grady and Bob Bevkirch.

The committee is expected to report its findings at next month's meeting.

The committee was appointed after questions were raised at the meeting whether the park department should take further steps to save energy. One of the questions raised, for instance, was whether the city should turn off lights for night-time tennis.

In his report to the board, city recreation director Roscoe Righter said that six new recreation programs will begin soon. These include a recreation afternoon for retired persons at Convention Hall, a recreation evening for handicapped or retarded persons, a men's basketball league, ceramics class, a knitting, needle point or crochet class and co-ed volleyball.

Righter also announced that Mrs. Terry Lightfoot, a 1967 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, has been hired as a secretary for the Park Department.

This is an artist's concept of a wholly new kind of Marine assault ship, complete with a monorail train operating inside and a 78-foot back door opening into the sea. The first ship, which was launched Saturday, was named "Tarawa" and combines four different types of ships now used when the Marines go ashore in an amphibious assault. The Tarawa is as large as the largest World War II carriers and at 39,300 tons is the second biggest class of warship in the world today. (UPI)

Autobiography includes opinions of 'tough guy'

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite his tough-guy portrayals on the screen, Edward G. Robinson was a cautious man in interviews, skirting controversy and avoiding references to his personal life.

Now his autobiography has been published posthumously, and his opinions are revealed, with such matters as troubles with his first wife and their son and his decade-long struggle to save his career from destruction by Red hunters.

Robinson was working on the book with screen writer-playwright Leonard Spigelgass when cancer struck the actor early this year. He died at 79 on Jan. 26, two months before the Motion Picture Academy was to present him with a special Oscar.

He had told his wife Jane: "Pick up the Oscar for me, dearest one, and don't wear black."

The book is called "All My Yesterdays," and he indicates that some of them were bitter. He had a long, calamitous marriage to the former actress Gladys Lloyd, whom he described as a manic-depressive who was treated many times for her mental problems. The ultimate tragedy for Robinson was when their divorce forced him to sell his art collection, one of the best in America.

Robinson also had to endure the many drunken escapades of Edward Jr. The father wrote: "Whatever agonies of spirit forced him into these behavior patterns are matched now by my own agonies as I remember them."

Born in Romania, Robinson grew up in the tenements of New York's East Side and began fighting for the underdog early—he was one of them. His support of liberal causes brought him under suspicion from the Red hunters who determined who could not work in the entertainment industry in the late 1940s.

He had been a top star, but suddenly Robinson couldn't find work. He spent his days amid his art collection:

"I would have my coffee and toast in the mornings with nowhere to go, nothing to do, idleness hanging heavily upon me, and having no capacity to deal with it. I'd take a little feather brush and dust the Corot and the Dufy and straighten other pictures and wait for the phone to ring or the mail to come."

The phone rang with crank calls, and the mail brought death threats and name-calling—"you dirty, filthy, Communist, Jew gangster."

Robinson sought a hearing before the House Un-American Activities Committee, even though he believed "it is embarrassing and boot-licking and sickening to me to have to say, 'No, I am not and have never been a member of the Communist party ...'"

He wasn't called, and his film career ground to a halt. Finally, Congressman Sam Yorty, later to be Los Angeles mayor, arranged an appearance before the committee, but the actor's professions of innocence failed to stop the descent of his career. He returned to the stage, then played second leads in B pictures.

It was arch-conservative Cecil B. DeMille who returned Robinson to favor with a role in "The 10 Commandments." The actor continued his active career until his death.

Senators defeated in battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — A three-day battle between Senate advocates of public financing of federal election campaigns and the White House has ended in defeat for the senators.

The only thing the advocates salvaged Monday was a pledge that the battle can be renewed early in the 1974 session. But it would not have the impetus of an emergency bill behind it. Sponsors of the campaign financing plan decided to give up after two crucial votes showed they could not win this year.

They released to the President a debt limit bill they had hoped to use as the vehicle for a public financing rider.

Nixon promptly signed the debt increase into law Monday night, thus ending an emergency that shortly could have thrown the government into brankruptcy.

The bill establishes a temporary debt ceiling of $475.7 billion until next June 30. The debt limit had dropped to its permament ceiling of $400 billion last Friday night as Congress reached an impasse on campaign financing.

The Treasury Department said that had the debt limit increase not been voted by Wednesday, the government would have been unable to pay many of its bills.

Throughout the fight, White House aides at the Capitol repeatedly advised that the President would veto the bill if any part of the campaign financing proposal were attached to it. Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., floor manager for the measure, said this threat had an important effect on the final outcome.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a leading sponsor, said the White House arranged to fly Republican senators back to Washington in Air Force planes to vote against the proposal.

Says airport plan would be wasteful now

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Rep. James W. Symington, D-Mo., has urged the Department of Transportation to reassess its decision regarding the location of a new airport for the metropolitan area here.

The St. Louis Democrat said Monday the energy crisis and cutbacks in airline flights make a proposed new airport for the region located in Illinois "not only unnecessary but wasteful."

In a letter to Transportation Secretary Claude S. Brinegar, Symington pointed out that by the time a new major airport would be operational, many commercial aircraft making short flights may be using new short-takeoff-and-landing planes from terminals much closer to the city.

"New airports such as the Illinois proposal may become instant anachronisms and monuments to cement, wasted resources and devastated landscape," he said.

Any need for a hasty decision on the location of a new airport, Symington said, has been removed by the energy crisis and the subsequent reduction in commercial flights.

The congressman also pointed out that the cost of expanding current facilities at Lambert Airport to meet future needs is predicted to be about $1 billion less than building a new airport Columbia-Waterloo, Ill.

Life expectancy for a white male in the United States is 67.5 years; for a nonwhite male — 60.1 years. For a white female, it's 74.9 years; for a nonwhite female — 67.5 years.

Says fuel crisis not a new thing

The energy pinch this country is presently experiencing is not new, but has been developing over the years, Ray Heintz, district manager for Standard Oil Division, Amoco Oil Co., of Kansas City, told members of the Rotary Club at noon Monday at Ramada Inn.

The daily usage of oil products has expanded until at the present time the consumption rate is three gallons of oil per day for every man, woman and child in the U.S., according to Heintz. He said this amounts to one-third of the world's daily usage.

In discussing the need to save energy during the present emergency, and until exploration and development can produce a greater supply to service the country's needs, Heintz suggested that, "If everyone will save a little in heating oil, in natural gas, in gasoline — in all products made from fossil fuels — there will be enough so that no one will need to do without." He called for full support of governmental officials who are offering realistic solutions to the energy problems.

The speaker was introduced by Bob Hartzler, in the absence of LeRoy Iuchs, program chairman.

Robert Phillips, club president, called attention to the showing of "Bolivian Adventure" by Romain Wilhelmsen on the Rotary-sponsored travelogue series at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Smith-Cotton High School auditorium.

Guests were Bill True, Sedalia, territory manager for Standard Oil, Verl Schnepf, a Standard service station operator here, and student guests Calvin Ennis and Pat Wagner, Sacred Heart High School; and David Biggs and Mike O'Neill, Smith-Cotton High School. They were introduced by the Rev. Thomas Hall.

Effluent controls are among topics

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Regulations on effluent discharge and permits will be discussed by the Missouri Clean Water Commission Wednesday at Missouri Valley College in Marshall.

The Board of Public Works for Marshall will give a presentation. Also on the agenda are a discussion of the Lakehurst Mobile Home Park in Jefferson County and the application for a construction permit for the Riverside Sewer Co., to construct a treatment plant.

Warm weather helps during energy crisis

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

From New York to San Francisco, conservation efforts and warm weather combined for a decline in electricity consumption during November.

But utility officials say they can't judge how much of the drop was due to the generally higher temperatures and how much resulted from Americans responding to President Nixon's Nov. 8 appeal for energy savings.

A spokesman for Consolidated Edison in New York City said that for the weeks ended Nov. 4 and Nov. 11, electricity consumption was higher than during the same period in 1972. The next two weeks showed a decline, however, both from the previous weeks and from the 1972 figures.

Con Ed spokesmen were reluctant to give a reason for the decline, citing weather, population growth and other variables that would affect the amount of electricity used.

Milton Musicus, chairman of the Mayor's Emergency Energy Committee, said, however: "We must have turned the tide. We're not only cutting growth, but are making inroads into actual usage."

Pacific Gas & Electric in San Francisco said that for the week ended Nov. 24, consumption was up 2.6 per cent over the figure a year ago, but was 10.4 per cent below what had been predicted.

Bill Conley of the New England Power Exchange, whose 44 member companies account for 95 per cent of all the electricity generated in New England, said usage was estimated at four or five per cent below the forecast previously made for November.

"We believe that the decrease — or a good portion of it — is due to conservation measures," he said.

The Edison Electric Institute, which compiles nationwide statistics, confirmed that electricity usage declined during November, particularly near the end of the month. But the institute warned that its figures did not take into account variables like the weather and therefore said it could not draw any conclusions from the figures.

Some utilities tried to take into account the weather when making their computations.

Public Service Electric & Gas, New Jersey's largest electrical utility, said that for the week ended Nov. 24, consumption was 509.7 million kilowatt hours, a decline of five per cent over the same period in 1972.

A company spokesman said the average temperature for Nov. 2-25 was 48.3 degrees this year compared with 44.9 degrees last year.

Commonwealth Edison Co., which supplies Chicago and much of northern Illinois, said consumption was down, but temperatures were up. "It could be a combination of weather and conservation or just weather," a spokesman said. "We just don't know."

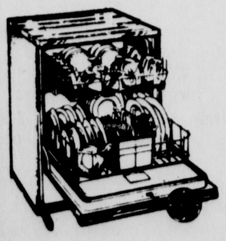

Claude Dickens of the Kansas City Board of Public Utilities said there was a decrease of 5.8 per cent in electricity usage from October to November this year. He said it was too early to say whether a trend was developing, but added: "There is some decrease in usage that can be attributed to customer action."

Jones families surveyed on energy crisis

Children contribute

Three-year-old Bryan Hermanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Hermanson, 1515 Driftwood, got into the holiday spirit Monday by manning one of the Salvation Army kettles, this one located in front of Grants. Sandra Thornton, also three, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Thornton, 206 West Avenue, figured if Bryan could do his part, so could she — and dropped in a nickel. Bryan rang the bell for much of the afternoon Monday.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — If the rest of the country keeps up with a cross section of the Joneses out in its heartland, quite a bit of energy will be saved this winter.

But probably not as much as President Nixon is hoping for.

Thirty-nine Jones families spread from the Mississippi along the eastern edge of Missouri to Boot Hill country in western Kansas are unanimous on one thing:

They will have no outside Christmas lights this year.

Most of these Joneses have lowered their thermostats to 68, a few to 64. There is some fudging the other way in homes where tots play on the floor or oldsters make the excuse of thin blood.

Most of the Joneses are driving at 50 or under. A few are thinking about smaller cars and many already have them. Most expect to reduce their driving. The working Joneses travel an average of about 20 miles a day to and from their jobs, but there is no big push for car pools.

Only a few Joneses are worried that the energy crisis is going to cut their jobs out from under them.

A majority of the Joneses feel that the energy crisis is something which came on suddenly. Some had embarked on conservation schemes months ago, particularly where inflation was eating into modest incomes. But many didn't give it much thought until President Nixon made it a public crusade with his broadcast appeals.

"We are all too used to easy living," said Mrs. Stephen Jones, whose husband operates a sawmill near Neosho, Mo. "I think this will show just how much we can take and how much we are willing to give up."

The Stephen Joneses have a new wood stove as backup for their natural gas heat. They also have a new baby.

William Mack Jones, professor of English and Shakespeare scholar at the University of Missouri at Columbia, has cut back the thermostats to 68 in the daytime and 64 at night in the old home where he and his wife and three children live.

"This is about 10 degrees lower than in the past," Prof. Jones said. "It's a better life, really, than the hot-house life we used to live. We feel more healthy in the cooler temperatures."

None of the 39 Jones families who answered questions for reporters seems to be taking the energy crisis lightly, but some are suspicious of it.

Mrs. William R. Jones, wife of a retired soft drink salesman at Leavenworth, Kan., said:

"I think the whole thing started as a conspiracy by the oil companies. At first, I think it was a way to push the independent dealers out of business."

Mrs. Roger A. Jones, wife of a rancher at Dodge City, Kan., says they are worried about the energy crisis but feel there is not much they can do about it.

"We blame the big-wigs in Washington," she said. "They should have had more foresight. I don't blame the President himself but all of the big-wigs."

In addition to dispensing with outside Christmas lights this year, many of the Joneses are not going to have lights on their trees.

"...If we can convince the children to string popcorn instead," said Dick Jones, insurance salesman and farmer at Macon, Mo.

His main worries, incidentally, are fuel for his farm machinery and getting enough fertilizer, which comes mainly from natural gas.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Jones at Fulton, Mo., are among those who plan to turn on their Christmas tree lights only for special occasions this yuletide.

Almost three-quarters of the Jones live in houses which are insulated, have storm windows or both. Many are upgrading their insulation and caulking cracks around window frames.

Most homes in Missouri and Kansas are heated by natural gas, and the Hugoton field in southwest Kansas is one of the world's greatest. Nearly all of the gas and pipeline companies have promised they will have enough gas for their residential customers if they conserve and unless it is a particularly bitter winter.

Propane is the big fuel in the rural areas away from the gas fields. Seven among the 39 Jones families heat with propane and most of them are nervous.

Woodrow Jones at Thompson, Mo., has cut his thermostat to the low 60s, is grateful for the mild fall but still is concerned about what will happen when the gauge on his 1,000-gallon propane tank nears the "empty" mark.

Gary Jones at Kingsville, Mo., says his supplier assures him he'll get enough propane. Richard V. Jones, whose mobile home is on the edge of Joplin, Mo., has a written pledge from an oil company that it will not let him run out.

Mrs. Frank Jones, who lives on a rural route out of Ottawa, Kan., is keeping her thermostate at 67 most of the time to conserve propane.

So is Mrs. Sam Jones, who lives in the warmer climes of southeast Missouri near Cape Girardeau.

"To tell the truth, I'm about half cold," she said.

Mr. and Mrs. Ramon Jones, in Cape Girardeau, are the only family among the 39 who use heating oil. Their oil man hasn't given them any notice that they won't get their usual ration, and they trust him.

Chief of Police Remal Jones, deep in the Missouri Ozarks at West Plains, comes closest to providing his own heating energy. Chief and Mrs. Jones have wood stoves.

"I can always get out the old ax and cut my own wood—if I can find the timber," he said.

A.S. Jones, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce at Independence, Kan., and Homer L. Jones Jr., a news photographer at Jefferson City, Mo., are the only Joneses among the 39 families with electric heat. Homer confesses he's fudged his thermostats up to 70. He also has rounded up an extra supply of wood for his fireplace. But he drives a small foreign car.

As do most Americans, the Joneses in Mid-America have strong feelings about their cars and how they drive them. Nearly all are striving to drive at 50 and under. Some think it is a good thing, some have a hard time going so slowly and some think its silly.

Many of the Joneses are proud that their campacts save gasoline. Others say they are getting almost as good mileage with larger cars and would do even better if it weren't for pollution control gadgets required by the government.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald A. Jones of Manhattan, Kan., zipped along at their regular 70 miles an hour on a recent trip to Texas, before President Nixon's personal appeal for 50.

"I don't think the reduced rate helps that much," Mrs. Jones said. "People nave to get places on time: and except for Sunday driving, 50 is awfully slow. My husband likes big cars. He says they're more comfortable."

Jones works for the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Warren M. Jones bicycles to the school where he teaches at Fort Scott, Kan. Mrs. Jones believes that pollution control gadets have cut gas mileage by at least one third.

"If they would take them off and lower the speed limit to 60, which is more reasonable, I think they would work out the energy crisis," she said.

"Why drive so fast?" asks Thomas E. Jones, a painter and carpenter near Iola, Kan. "You've got all day to get there."

Jones never drives his compact over 40.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones of St. Joseph, Mo., have cut back to 50.

"This will not only help save gasoline," he said, "it will help save lives."

He is a detective at police headquarters.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Jones at Springfield, Mo., have three medium-sized cars and they have worked up two car pools. They will take one car to their real estate office, and their two high school boys will double up in the other one.

Jones recently was elected president of the Greater Springfield Chamber of Commerce. The thermostat at home is on 68, all the storm windows are tight and there will be no Christmas lights this year.

At Winfield, Kan., Mrs. Roy Jones, widow, has storm windows except on one window on a protected side of the house. She stuffs some old cotton socks into the cracks around it.

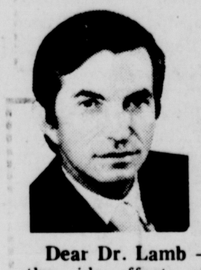

"I left the storm off so if the house catches fire I can get out," she said.

"Just call me "Scotchie" Jones. I always turn off the lights when I go from one room to another. And like the other day, I made pumpkin pie, pumpkin custard pudding, apple dumplings and baked apples all the same time to save heat."

Side effects of hormones

Dear Dr. Lamb — What are the side effects of a female taking male hormones for 10 to 12 years? Would it cause glittering in the eyes or a staggering feeling and blackouts? What would be the side effects if one decided to stop taking them? The problem is I had cancer of the lung, or they thought it was. But, it has been in a standstill state for about 12 years. One doctor said it was bronchitis.

Dear Reader — It makes quite a bit of difference whether one has bronchitis or cancer of the lungs. And, since you have had the question of cancer of the lungs discussed with you, the possible diagnosis can't be much of a shock to you. So, I would think the first thing would be to find out just exactly what you really do have. Then the proper treatment can be given.

I would guess that the doctors believed you have a cancer that originated somewhere else in the body, the breast or female organs, and that was the reason for the male hormones. Maybe you just represent a very successful treatment. I would certainly not advise you to stop the drugs without knowing with absolute certainty what your diagnosis is under these circumstances. For that reason, I must advise you to stay on the treatment you have been on until your doctors tells you otherwise. Meanwhile, I would have a frank discussion with him and see if you can't get a clear understanding of your diagnosis.

The male hormones used in women for such problems tend to slow down or stop a cancerous growth originating from the female organs. They do tend to decrease the effects of female hormones and, in a nutshell, tend to cause masculine-like changes. They will cause the hair to get coarser, sometimes affect facial hair, and body characteristics and even affect the person's mood, perhaps causing a women to be more aggressive. Sex drive can also be increased. Not withstanding these effects, in selected cases hormones can be very beneficial in treating difficult medical problems.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Several years ago I had a thyroid operation for a toxic goiter. I have been taking Cytomel and don't understand the effects of this drug or what I'm taking it for. It is inexpensive and I take only one a day. Would you please explained the drug and what it does?

Dear Reader — Cytomel is a thyroid hormone. It is the more active form of the hormone and has a rapid action.

Your doctor is giving it to you because he believes your thyroid gland is no longer producing enough thyroid hormone since your operation. No doubt, most, if not all, of your thyroid gland was removed. This is the usual procedure. If the thyroid gland is rather completely removed, it is essential that thyroid hormone replacement be given. If you didn't take it you would develop problems related to low thyroid function.

The thyroid hormone is essential to normal life processes. It enables your cells to convert food to energy for all of the cell functions throughout the body.

Assault cases are moved to Circuit Court

In Pettis County Magistrate Court action Monday, the cases of Clyde E. Powers, 24, and Tony L. Powers, 21, 5 Burton Drive, were bound over to Pettis County Circuit Court after a preliminary hearing.

The two are charged with assault with intent to do bodily harm in connection with an attack on Lanny B. Houk, owner of Houk's Bar, Nov. 10. The complaint alleges the Powers' men beat Houk with a tire tool and a heavy steel rod. Both men are free on bond.

In other court proceedings, Daniel W. Allen, 21, 700 West Sixth, waived a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court and his case of issuing an insufficient funds check was bound over to Pettis County Circuit Court for trial. Allen is charged with passing a bad check to G-Disco last May 15. He is free on bond.

A charge of fleeing from a felony in another state was filed in Magistrate Court Monday against Anderson Arthur Young, Jr.

The complaint, filed by Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming, alleges that Allen fled from Newark, N.J., when he was charged in Essex County, N.J., with intent to distribute a controlled substance. Young is being held in the county jail for New Jersey authorities.

Trial dates are set for four persons

Trial dates for four persons charged with felonies were set Monday in Pettis County Circuit Court while two other persons appeared before Circuit Court Judge Meyer for sentencing.

James Paul Youngblood, 65, rural Lincoln, was sentenced to six months in the county jail and then placed on a year probation after he pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor bogus check charge. The charge was reduced from a felony Friday by Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming.

Youngblood was charged with issuing an insufficient funds check of $100 on Dec. 5 to the Sedalia police department for payment of a traffic fine.

In another case, Judge Meyer suspended sentencing for Mrs. Mary Ann Hays, rural Clinton, who pleaded guilty Oct. 16 on a charge of obtaining a controlled substance by fraudulent means.

Judge Meyer placed Mrs. Hays on probation for two-years. He stated that if she follows the probation stipulations, her record would not show a conviction. However, he said if Mrs. Hays does not live up to the terms of her probation, then he could sentence her after a hearing.

Mrs. Hays is charged with forging a prescription Jan. 31 at the Sedalia Drug Co., 123 South Ohio, for the purchase of amphetamine weight control pills.

Under the terms of the probation, Mrs. Hays must report to Bothwell Hospital once every three months for lab tests to insure she is not taking drugs. Mrs. Hays also agreed to waive her constitutional rights against search and seizure as terms of her probation.

In a third case, two Lincoln men pleaded innocent to charges of sale of marijuana at their arraignments. Pleading were Dave Erlenbusch and William Robert Wilson, both 24.

Judge Meyer set Erlenbusch's trial for March 1. Wilson's trial was postponed until the April term of court. Both men are free on 10 per cent of $10,000 bonds.

The two are charged with selling marijuana on March 10 to Robert Vaughn, Lincoln, at a house in Sedalia at West 20th and Prospect.

In other action, Ivin Farrow, 38, 715 West Seventh, pleaded innocent to a charge of assault with intent to rob with malice aforethought. His trial date was set for Jan. 22.

Farrow is charges with assaulting Mrs. Delores Stockstill with a knife Sept. 4 at the Pacific Cafe, 202 West Main. He allegedly threatened to injure her and rob her and her husband, Charles Stockstill, owner of the cafe.

In the last case, Judge Meyer set Feb. 15 as the trial date for Frank Bryan, 54, Crestview Trailer Court. Bryan is charged with issuing a no founds check of $187.75 on May 6 to Earl Moon. He is free on $1,000 bond.

Pettis County is part of fund bid

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Federal disaster aid to repair damage to public facilities in Boone, Gasconade, Jackson and Pettis counties has been requested by Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

Severe storms last September caused the damage.

Bond listed the damage estimates for the counties Monday as $95,000 for Boone, $2,000 at Hermann, in Gasconade County, $6,000 at Levasy, in Jackson County, and $50,000 in Pettis County.

On Oct. 15 Bond requested federal aid for damage to public facilities in 36 counties. The total Missouri public property damage as a result of the storms in Missouri this year was estimated at $61.4 million.

Truckers' protests block interstates

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Truck drivers protesting reduced speed limits and higher prices for diesel fuel blocked interstate highways in four states today. Authorities reported at least two arrests.

The first demonstration was reported in Pennsylvania, on Interstate 80 near Blakeslee, where truckers stalled traffic for five hours, finally ending their protest at 3 a.m.

Other stoppages were reported in Ohio, West Virginia and New Jersey with some of the same drivers apparently involved in more than one protest.

A Teamsters Union spokesman in Washington said he did not know whether the stoppages were part of a coordinated effort. "There's 19 million trucks and there's 400,000 teamsters that drive," he said, adding that he had no way of knowing whether the protesters were union members or not.

J.W. Edwards of Overland Park, Kan., one of the truckers involved in the Pennsylvania protest, said that if the drivers' demands were not met by mid-December there would be a nationwide truck stoppage on the highways.

There were no arrests in the Pennsylvania or New Jersey protests.

Near Cambridge, Ohio, Robert Gallicchio, 25, of Highland Park, N.J., refused to move off the highway and was arrested for illegally parking on the highway. He posted bond and was released.

Authorities in West Virginia said a group of truckers briefly blocked traffic on the westbound entrance to Interstate 70. One driver, Walter Barclay of Omaha, Neb., was arrested for blocking a road, was fined and released.

The amount of Barclay's fine was not immediately available.

Barclay later drove into Ohio and said he was one of the drivers involved in the Cambridge protest, which started at about 7 a.m., in the westbound lanes on Interstate 70.

"A truck driver right now is just dirt under peoples' feet," said Barclay who confirmed the West Virginia arrest.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said traffic was backed up for two miles at the height of the Cambridge demonstration which involved about 60 trucks. After the protest broke up at about 9 a.m., the drivers moved on along Interstate 70 to Hebron, Ohio, about 30 miles east of Columbus, where they set up another blockade. Half the caravan continued on to the outskirts of Columbus.

The protest at Cambridge ended just before 9 a.m., about two hours after it began. Traffic was backed up for about two miles by the 60-odd trucks participating in the demonstration.

State police in New Jersey said several large trucks stopped in the eastbound lanes of Route 80 near Blairstown during the morning rush hour, snarling traffic for several miles. One of the trucks was towed away.

The Pennsylvania protest on Interstate 80 near Blakeslee ended at about 3 a.m. after the truckers read a list of their demands to newsmen.

names would have to be stricken from both lists.

Carl Franklin, Third Ward councilman, said following the Nov. 19 council meeting that he conferred with several surrounding property owners regarding the proposed rezoning. Franklin said, "They objected to having businesses backed up to their doors." Caulter and Thomas reportedly plan to construct an office building at the site.

The council did approve Planning and Zoning Commission recommendation to rezone the Northwest corner of State Fair Boulevard and 16th Street from R-1 (residential single unit) to R-3 (apartment district).

The rezoning request was made by Leon T. Bently, and C. D. Hieronymus. Hieronymus earlier told the Planning and Zoning Commission he intends to build condominium-type apartments on the property, possibly multi-story, but not more than three stories.

The council approved the purchase of five lots adjacent to Housel Park for $2,000 from Don and Bettie Smith. The Park Department plans to erect a fence around the property and make it into a children's playground.

Raymond Bales, chairman of the public building and grounds committee, reported to the council that his committee has decided to award the contract for rennovation of Convention Hall to Dean Construction Co., which submitted the low bid of $150,842.

The council approved hiring Edward Dean Mosier as a probationary patrolman on the police force. In other personnel matters, Jones announced the appointment of Chandler Fernel, 1001 North Osage, to fill the unexpired term of the Rev. Glenn Nelson on the city Human Rights Commission. The council also voted to accept the resignation of Hugh Jaynes from the Cemetery Board because of his inability to serve after suffering a severe heart attack. Jones expressed the hope that Jaynes would recover soon.

The council voted unanimously to allow curb and gutter improvements on Ingram, between 19th and 20th, and on Summit, from Saline to Boonville, with the cost of the improvements to be borne by the property owners on the streets improved.

Carl Franklin, Third Ward Democrat, told the council he received a request from a downtown merchant that city employees park in city parking lots rather than in on-the-street spaces. Jones said he would pass the request on to city employes.

Jones opposed a move by several council members to provide a special parking space in the new Municipal Building parking lot for the mayor. He said parking spaces are at too much of a premium to provide special parking for any one person.

A request for a new package liquor license by Hubert R. Butler, for a package liquor store at 3210 South Highway 65, was approved by the council.

lawyer before the polygraph test.

Under cross examination, Donley said that Phillips had stated he ought to talk to Greg Woods, a friend, about seeing a lawyer. However, Donley said Phillips never made a specific request to see an attorney.

Mrs. Jones, 16, was murdered in her apartment at 1218 East Fifth. Phillips was arrested after 20 law enforcement officers on the West-central Missouri Major Case Squad had spent about 600 hours investigating 96 leads.

Mrs. Jones died of strangulation, Pettis County Coroner Dr. John Owens reported. She also had been stabbed a total of five times with two sharp instruments.

Phillips was granted a change of venue Oct. 24 from Pettis County Circuit Court to Boone County Circuit Court.

He is a former airman at Whiteman AFB and was staying at the Broadway Apartments at the time of his arrest.

Mrs. Jones was the mother of an infant daughter, Corena Marie Jones. Mrs. Jones' father, Pat Wagner, 617 East 17th, and his wife, Alice, were awarded custody of the infant in Circuit Court recently.

School

also be used for 27 teacher aides in the elementary schools — or about one aide per 100 students.

The next objective listed — pupil assistance — put emphasis on improved health services, increased counseling services and better instructional resources. Three registered nurses would be hired under this plan, and a van would be purchased for thier use. Three more counselors and two vans for them were also included. Some rennovation work in elementary schools would provide working space for these people.

Another priority listed in the prepared statement involves improved audio-visual education using a full-time person to deal exclusively with media techniques being used in education.

Finally, the committee urged program assistance funds be sought in the areas of a reading specialist program, mathematics specialist program, educational adjustments program and a transportation monitoring system. This would call for hiring a reading specialist, mathematics specialist, eight education adjustment teachers and eight bus monitors selected from among the teacher aides.

Among about 12 citizens attending the meeting were Mrs. Rose Nolen, Lima Alley, and Mrs. Lynn Block, Route 2, who both urged that cultural and ethnic awareness be given priority in any program here. Mrs. Nolen said it was important to her that someone on the committee concern himself with the experiences confronting minority children. She said that at a school like Horace Mann, a black male student has no black male instructor with whom he can directly identify.

Members of the committee assured Mrs. Nolen that such problems had been discussed and that the in-service training of teachers is intended to overcome such difficulties.

Mrs. Nolen is one of a group of North Side residents who recently urged the federal government to review the Sedalia desegretation plan, especially in regard to closing Hubbard School as an elementary school.

Mrs. Block, who is president of the League of Women Voters, said the school system needs more minority group teachers and administrators, and Mrs. Nolen said clerical jobs should be added to that list.

When the topic of the racial makeup of faculties was raised, Oscar Lawson, 631 North Osage, said: "I'm in hopes we'll get away from these little petty foolishnesses." He said the school system should hire teachers or administrators because they are qualified, not because they are black.

Steve Laslo, director of Project WESTCENMO, suggested to the committee that it seek funds to finance a method of helping indigent students who have health problems, but who cannot obtain medical attention.

Toward the conclusion of the meeting, Dr. Henningsen said steps taken so far are highly tentative and that no matter what requests are submitted, officials of the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare have the option of granting funds for only certain portions of the planned program.

He summarized the program Tuesday as one aimed at "humanizing and individualizing education." He said all students in the system, not just minorities, would benefit.

The final application will be written by Dr. Fred Gies and Dr. Charles Leopard, staff members of the University of Missouri-Columbia, who will be paid a $3,000 fee, but only if the application is approved.

Members of the committee are the Rev. Denis Craft, chairman; Mrs. Carl Yates, secretary; Harry Browder, Bill Dey, Mrs. Elmer Draffen, Mrs. Robert Edmonds, Mrs. Mary Nakamura and Merlyn Sherpard.

Gas rationing is sought by senator

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., called today for immediate gasoline rationing and criticized the Nixon administration for not acting quickly in the face of the energy crisis.

Eagleton, in remarks prepared for delivery at the annual meeting of the Association of Missouri Electrical Cooperatives, called for "operator candor" by the administration.

The Senator said a fuel study finished well before the Mideast oil cutoff revealed that unemployment could soar as high as 12 per cent unless quick action was taken.

He said the energy shortage this winter will be as much as 25 per cent and denounced Nixon's 17 per cent estimate as misleading.

"In my view we must face the unpleasant reality and take the hardest step right now by establishing a system for rationing and allocating fuels of all kinds," Eagleton said.

"It is an inescapable decision that will only become harder for its postponement," Eagleton said.

he called his oil allocation amendment to a federal wage and price bill, "the first direct effort to come to grips with our energy problems."

Firm is awarded $2,000 settlement

The Sedalia MFA Exchange Monday was awarded a total of $2,657.60 in Circuit Court, and court costs, in a two-count settlement of a suit brought by the company against Jim Johnson, Route 4.

In its suit, MFA maintained Johnson had not satisfactorily paid for farm equipment and supplies he purchased in 1971.

Strong winds blamed for damage in area

Heavy rains and gale-force winds caused fire and damage in several areas of central Missouri late Monday night and early Tuesday morning.

The Masonic Temple building, on the square in Camdenton, was swept by fire shortly after 6 a.m. Tuesday morning and the Kinderhook Regional Library, located on the lower floor of the building, was destroyed.

A spokesman for the Camden County sheriff's department said that lightning apparently struck power lines in the vicinity of the building.

Three units from the Camdenton Fire Department responded to the fire and had it under control in about an hour, although the blaze was not extinguished until almost 10 a.m., the spokesman said.

Although the fire did not break through to the top floor of the building, it was reported that the upper story, sustained heavy smoke damage. No damage estimate was available on the damage.

Winds reported to be at 50 to 55 miles an hour hit the Lake of the Ozark area Tuesday morning, ripping boats and boat docks from their moorings and scattering them over the lake area.

The Missouri State Boat Patrol indicated that at least 50 docks had broken loose and 25 boats were being rounded up by officers of the patrol. Several boats reportedly sank at the docks.

Lt. Col. Jack M. Reynolds, of the Patrol, said that the Shawnee Bend, Sunrise Beach, Osage Beach and Lake Ozark areas appeared to be worst hit by the storm.

The strongest gusts hit the lake area about 5 a.m., it was reported and wind readings were still above 40 miles an hour just before noon Tuesday.

Wind damage to several structures in the western portion of Eldon was reported to city police Tuesday.

A spokesman for the Eldon police department said that several metal buildings had been moved in the town and that at least one small building had been moved to the top of a larger building by the high winds.

A trailer was heavily damaged by fire about five miles south of Eldon shortly after 5 p.m. Monday, but authorities in Eldon indicated that the fire did not appear to have been caused by the storm.

Paul Plank, a Conservation agent in the area, said that the fire appeared to have been cause by a stove in the kitchen. The Lake Ozark Volunteer Fire Department and a truck from the Conservation Department had the blaze under control in about an hour, according to Plank, but fire, water and smoke damage was extensive.

Say arson caused fire in Marshall

(Democrat-Capital Service)

JEFFERSON CITY — Arson has been listed as the official cause of Saturday night's fire at Missouri Valley College in Marshall, it was reported by Robert Morrison, Missouri fire marshall.

The fire damaged Campbell Hall. Investigators found indications of an indendiary fire, Morrison said. Evidence was collected which will be processed in the Missouri Highway Patrol laboratory here, he said.

Campbell Hall was formerly a dormitory but was used by the music department of the college. The department moved there after the music building was destroyed by fire less than a year ago.

Home-baked molasses or butterscotch bread satisfies all

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Bread baking is richly satisfying to the baker and rewarding to those lucky enough to enjoy the bounty.

Making good yeast bread can be time-consuming but breads leavened with baking powder and baking soda are quick and easy for those who have time problems. Interesting breads for the holidays include a Molasses Health Bread made with wheat germ, yogurt and orange juice; Raisin Date and Nut Bread, and a Butterscotch Nut Bread with pecans or walnuts. All are nutritious and tasty as dessert snacks and or for sandwiches.

You can slice these breads while they are still warm from the oven. However, they are better in flavor and texture if they are stored overnight.

MOLASSES HEALTH BREAD

- 2¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon mace
- 1 cup sugar
- ½ cup wheat germ
- 1 cup dark raisins, chopped
- 1 tablespoon grated orange peel
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 1 container (8 ounce) plain yogurt
- one-third cup dark molasses
- ½ cup orange juice
- ¼ cup melted shortening
- Confectioners' sugar (optional)

Into a large mixing bowl, sift together flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt, cinnamon, mace and sugar. Stir in wheat germ, raisins and orange peel. In medium-size bowl, combine egg, yogurt, molasses and orange juice. Add to flour mixture and stir just until flour is dampened. Stir in shortening and mix just until blended. Pour batter into well greased 9x5x4-inch loaf pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 1 hour 10 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out dry. Cool 10 minutes; remove from pan to wire rack; cool completely. Wrap in foil or plastic wrap and store overnight for easy slicing. Dust with confectioners' sugar, if desired. Makes 1 loaf.

RAISIN DATE AND NUT BREAD

- 3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- ½ cup sugar
- 2½ teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup chopped walnuts
- 1 cup chopped dates
- 1 cup dark raisins
- 1 egg
- 1 cup milk
- ½ cup light molasses
- 3 tablespoons vegetable oil
- Butter or cream cheese (optional)

In large mixing bowl, sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Stir in walnuts, dates and raisins. In small bowl, mix egg, milk, molasses and oil. Add to flour mixture; stir just until evenly moist. Turn into greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 1 hour or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan on wire rack 10 minutes. Loosen around edges; turn out onto wire rack; cool completely. Wrap in foil or plastic wrap. Store overnight to mellow flavors. Cut into thin slices. Spread with butter or cream cheese, if desired. Makes 1 loaf.

BUTTERSCOTCH NUT BREAD

- 3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 2½ teaspoons baking powder
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup sugar
- ¼ cup light molasses
- 1 egg
- 1¼ cups milk
- 1 cup finely chopped pecans or walnuts
- Confectioners' sugar frosting (optional)

On to waxed paper, sift together flour, baking powder, salt and baking soda. In large bowl, cream butter. Add sugar and molasses and beat until light and fluffy. Add egg, beating well. Add flour mixture alternately with the milk, beating until smooth after each addition. Fold in nuts. Pour batter into a well-greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 1 to 1-¼ hours. Remove from pan and cool on a wire rack. Wrap bread in foil or plastic wrap and store overnight for easy slicing. Frost, if desired. Makes 1 loaf.

Age battle rages in beauty salon

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the young breed of beauty operators who do not find it necessary to brush the tangles out of one's hair before shampooing and who never position the chair so one can see what they are doing until the "beautiful finished style" is finished. They also run a customer through before the hair is completely dry and when that "beautiful finished style" is exactly what the customer hates or the hair is parted on the wrong side they are nasty and can do nothing about it because the next customer is waiting. — DISGUSTED.

DEAR POLLY — My quick and easy way to remove candle wax from wood furniture is to rub lightly with an old nylon stocking. The wax comes off with little or no effort and there is no danger of harming the furniture. — BEATTY M.

DEAR POLLY — I use silver polish to clean my white storm doors, to take marks off no-wax flooring, clean appliances even colored ones, laminated plastic tops and sinks. I think it is wonderful because there is no danger of scratching like there might be with scrubbing powder.

We had trouble with our foam rubber mattress sliding on the box springs. I bought a one-inch thick foam mattress pad and put it between them. This holds both in place and helps keep the sheets and blanket tucked in. — SHARON.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — While removing my groceries from the bag a bottle of cider vinegar fell out and broke on the terrazo floor. This left a stain and the shine on the floor has gone. I would like to know how to remedy this. — CARMEN.

Anti-Xmas spirit

This year's The Grinch Who Stole Christmas Award surely must go to the Court of Appeals in Washington, D.C., which reversed a lower court decision that the nativity scene was an acceptable part of the nation's annual Christmas Pageant.

The pageant is an exhibit which has been erected for many years on National Park Service land between the White House and the Washington Monument. The suit, in the courts since the late 1960s, was initiated by three clergymen and two laymen, one of whom is a self-declared atheist.

In banning the manger display a while ago, the appeals court cited that part of the First Amendment which stated, "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion" — which Congress has never done. It neglected the next six words in the amendment, "...or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

The court's latest effrontery to the overwhelming majority of Americans is the latest in a series of efforts to turn Christmas into an antiseptic Yule.

If the courts are so outraged by religious sentiment in celebrations marking the birth date of the Man from Galilee, they might as well continue work as usual on Dec. 25 and declare Christmas an unconstitutional federal holiday.

Without the nativity, there would be no cause to celebrate Christmas at all. Surely the learned judges of the appeals court must know that. (St. Louis Globe-Democrat)

Caution in crisis

Fire Chief Willis Jabas has provided some timely words of caution about how not to combat the energy crisis.

Specifically the chief warned about home storage of more gasoline than the law allows, and of carrying gas in automobile trunks. Both can lead to trouble, especially the latter in the event of leakage of fumes or a collision.

There have been reports of a "run" on five-gallon gasoline containers in Sedalia as a hedge against running out on the highway. Motorists should seriously consider the dangers inherent in this practice.

Another danger spot is wood-burning stoves, which can lead to home fires because of improper flues. No one knows for sure whether we will ever have to resort to wood stoves again, but if we do they should at least be safe.

Statistically, a certain number of people will die in the coming months because of ill-advised steps to beat the energy crisis. Proper precautions can minimize the chances of that happening here.

Selecting your tape recorder

WASHINGTON — Dear Customer.

Congratulations! You are now the owner of the 1973 Mark VI Presidential Accident-Prone Tape Recording Machine.

Buchwald

The Mark VI has been scientifically developed to produce the highest quality hums of any tape recorder on the market. It can malfunction at the press of a button, and you can erase anything you want on your tape without even knowing it.

With just a little practice you will have the greatest collection of unintelligble noises ever recorded which you can play back to friends, judges and grand juries any time you want to.

HOW TO USE YOUR MARK VI PRESIDENTIAL TAPE MACHINE:

The first thing to do is sit at a desk facing your typewriter. Place your tape recorder next to you on a small table with the foot pedal underneath the desk. The telephone should be at least three feet behind your chair, almost impossible to reach.

Insert the tape into the recorder and push the PLAY button and start transcribing the voices. Then have someone call you. As soon as the phone rings, reach back with your left hand and accidentally press the RECORD button instead of the STOP button, making certain while twisting your body to keep your left foot on the pedal.

Keep this position for 5½ minutes, which should erase 18 minutes of tape.

After you hang up the phone, put the earphones on again, release your foot from the pedal, push the PLAY button and you should hear a loud shrieking hum.

If for some reason you do not get the hum after the telephone call, you are probably doing one of several things wrong.

1 — Check to see that the tape you inserted is the one you wanted to wipe out. All tapes look alike and some are not worth erasing.

2 — Did you by accident press the STOP button when you should have pressed the RECORD button? If you press the STOP button when the phone rings, it is IMPOSSIBLE to accidentally erase a perfectly good tape.

3 — Were you sitting in the correct position when the phone rang? If the phone was not located directly behind you, it would be very difficult to reach for it and also hit the RECORD button at the same time.

4 — Did you keep your foot on the pedal when you answered the phone and accidentally pressed the wrong button? Your Presidential Tape Recorder Mark VI will not malfunction unless you push the wrong button at the right time.

5 — The quality of the hum you get on your tape will depend on your foot pressure. A weak hum indicates you do not have your foot pedal pressed all the way down to the floor.

The Mark VI Presidential Tape Recorder has been tested under combat conditions. Secretaries all over the United States swear by it. Here is what Rose Mary Woods, a top-flight executive secretary, says about her presidential tape recorder: "I have been using the Mark VI tape machine for several months now and I don't know how I ever managed without it. It gives me hums when I want hums, and it gives me voices when I want voices. No machine on the market can erase so much conversation so fast."

If for any reason your Mark VI fails to erase accidentally your key conversations, you may return it to company headquarters at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, where it will be fixed absolutely free. The life of this warranty is for three more years or impeachment, whichever comes first.

Merry-go-round

Behind the scenes of the gas crisis

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — President Nixon simply hasn't leveled with his fellow Americans about the fuel crisis. He has adopted half measures, put out misinformation and made Pollyana-like promises. Here are resulting scandals that have already developed:

SCANDAL NO. 1: The President misled the nation when he claimed heavy duty trucks and highway buses are more efficient at 55 miles per hour and should be permitted, therefore, to travel five miles faster than cars.

It's not the trucks but the trucking lobby which is more efficient. Cummins Engine Company, the diesel engine manufacturer, has found that its engines will operate more efficiently at 50 mph.

An interoffice teletype, intended for the eyes only of the corporate bosses, states that a speed reduction from 60 to 55 mph will bring a 7 per cent fuel savings but that a further reduction to 50 mph would push the fuel savings to 10 per cent.

This is substantiated by the Transportation Department's private estimates, which show the highway dreadnaughts could save 47,000 barrels of fuel a day by slowing from 55 to 50 mph.

We cited the department's own figures to Deputy Assostant Secretary Irwin Halpern who, echoing the President, had testified on Capitol Hill that the big trucks and buses "operate more efficiently" at 55 mph.

Halpern admitted our figures were right and his testimony apparently was wrong. But he pointed out, quite accurately, that fuel economy depends upon the variables. Terrain, transmission, axle ratios, driving techniques and mechanical adjustments can affect gas mileage.

The decision to let the big diesel rigs travel 55 mph, said Halpern, took into account the "economic impact." Truckers are paid by the mile, so a slowdown in miles traveled per day reduces their profits. "We simply sought the right balance," he said.

SCANDAL NO. 2: Sources close to the oil industry tell us some suppliers are holding back fuel until prices go up. Then they will be able to sell the same fuel for higher profits. Other profiteers are diverting oil intended for the United States to foreign ports where prices already are higher.

This suppressing and siphoning of America's scarce fuel, say our sources, has been encouraged by the President's pricing and priorities policies.

Hardest hit have been the independent truckers, who tell us they don't mind driving slower so much as taking on fuel in dribbles. Most truck stops will no longer fill up their tanks. This means the truckers must stop for fuel more often, which plays havoc with their schedules.

Truckers keep in touch with one another by radio, reporting highway conditions and exchanging information. This underground network has been buzzing lately with talk of a nationwide, pre-Christmas shutdown, as a protest over fuel policies.

Some want to keep their trucks off the highways for a week. But the word is spreading that a 48-hour shutdown, probably Dec. 13 and 14, would be dramatic enough.

SCANDAL NO. 3: The President's fuel policies appear to be fashioned of, by and for the oil-gas industry. Most of the policymaking bodies, such as the American Petroleum Institute, National Petroleum Council, and the Interior Department's oil and gas office, are dominated by industry people.

Now Interior Secretary Rogers Morton is bringing in 250 oil executives to help handle fuel allocation. The crash program to squeeze oil from shale is also directed by an old hand from the oil industry, Reid Stone, a former Atlantic-Richfield Oil Company executive.

Not surprisingly, Interior has granted terms that will permit the oil barons to reap a bonanza from shale oil. The oil companies will dig out the shale, then crush and heat it in an attempt to extract oil. Interior has estimated that the shale in Colorado, Utah and Wyoming eventually could yield up to 600 billion barrels of oil.

The oil companies will pay the government an average royalty of about 17 cents per barrel. This can easily be recouped from the 15 per cent depletion allowance, which will net the oil companies about 45 cents per barrel. The companies will also be allowed to deduct the rent from the annual royalty they will pay the government for leasing the shale land.

Under the terms adopted by the Interior Department, the bidding for leases will start at 50 cents an acre, although the land was being sold commercially during the 1960s for $4,500 an acre. The cost of reclaiming the land, after it has been strip-mined, will also be borne largely by the public.

Stone told us these terms are necessary to give the oil companies "an adequate return" on their investment. He will have nothing to say, he added, about who gets the oil shale leases.

SCANDAL NO. 4: The President told the Seafarers Union that the oil crunch shouldn't last much longer than a year. He also promised the nation that his "Project Independence" could bring self-sufficiency in energy by 1980.

This is quite different from what his energy experts have been telling him privately. Our policies since World War II, they tell us, have made us so dependent upon foreign oil that the 1980 goal is completely unrealistic.

They say sadly that President Nixon still hasn't come to grips with the oil crisis.

A conservative view

Help for High Court still a necessity

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — A full year has passed since a special Study Group on the Caseload of the Supreme Court released its report. Nothing very constructive has happened in the meantime. The recommendations still lie on the table, and the caseload still mounts at the court.

Kilpatrick

Alexander Bickel, Chancellor Kent professor of law at Yale, addresses himself to the situation in a cogent and persuasive paper just published by the American Enterprise Institute. He makes the best argument I yet have read in support of the Study Group's controversial proposal for a new National Court of Appeals.

The facts are not greatly in dispute. Between 1951 and 1971, the number of cases on the Supreme Court's docket nearly tripled, from 1,353 to 4,515. During the 1972 term, which ended last June, the court had to pass some kind of judgment on 4,619 cases. There is little reason to doubt Chief Justice Burger's estimate that by 1980, some 7,000 petitions a year will be pressing for review.

The question is what, if anything, should be done about the growing burden. The Study Group, headed by Professor Paul Freund of Harvard, examined and discarded a number of alternatives, and finally came up with its recommendation for a new court of seven judges, drawn by rotation from the existing federal courts of appeal. Under the plan, this court would receive all petitions addressed to the Supreme Court, review them, and then certify perhaps 400 to 500 petitions a year for the high court's consideration. From these, the court would choose perhaps 175 to 200 for oral argument or other top-level disposition.

As Bickel wryly notes, the proposal "has drawn numerous critics, some of them important, some intemperate, some both, and some neither." The most notable critic, Justice William O. Douglas, has said flatly that nothing needs to be done: the court, in his acerbic view, is not overworked but underworked. Other critics have minimized the time and effort required for each of the nine justices to pass on each of the petitions reaching the court. Still other critics have expressed the view, which I happen to share, that something of value would be lost if the humblest litigant were denied an opportunity to put his petition, however fleetingly, in the actual hands of the highest judges in the land.

Bickel provides a thoughtful rebuttal. If nothing is done, he submits, eventually the pressures of time and volume will produce a situation in which the great bulk of petitions presented to the court can receive only the most cursory and superficial glance. "If nothing is done, or if staff is resorted to, the vaunted right of access to the Supreme Court will be an illusion." In such an event, respect for the court is bound to decline.

The Freund Study Group justified its proposal, in part, on the argument that the nine justices need more time simply to reflect, to read, and to prepare top-quality opinions. Bickel shares that view. He is not impressed with Justice Douglas's whiz-bang conception of the court's capacity.

"If the task of decision is more an individual administrative or executive event than a collective scholarly and deliberative process," Bickel says, "if in another sense of the word the court can 'process' cases after the fashion of a high-speed, high-volume enterprise, if all that counts is "the bottom line,' and if a day spent in deep constitutional contemplation is a day partly wasted, then Justice Douglas is plainly right and there is no problem. Otherwise there is, or there soon will be."

Ann Landers

Advice to one gets message to other

Dear Ann Landers: Funny how your advice for somebody else had a message for me. I took it eight years ago and I am writing to say thank you. It was the "forgive and forget" answer you gave to a woman with small children and a husband with a "wandering eye."

You said, "If there is a light in the window, and the man has any good in him, he'll be back." Then you added, "Don't be stubborn or proud. Take him back. I promise you won't regret it."

When I read that letter my husband was living away from home and he wanted to come back, but I just couldn't bring myself to accept him. Your advice to that woman seemed somehow as if it was meant for me. So I took it. The eight years that followed were our happiest.

Three weeks ago death took my darling, very suddenly. The days and nights are lonely, but the warmth of the memories of our last years together will sutain me forever. So, Ann, I want to thank you for helping me, even though I didn't write to you. — Your Friend In Marshfield, Wis.

Dear Friend: Your heart-warming letter reminded me of those wonderful words by Robert Frost:

"Home is where, when you have to go there,
They have to take you in."

I'm so glad I helped. Thank you for letting me know.

Dear Ann Landers: I am pregnant and it is all your fault. I wrote to you two and a half months ago and begged for your help. You let me down.

Our sons are six and three years of age. I didn't want any more children. My husband has been nagging me for a third baby for two years. When he became impossible I wrote you a letter and asked you to print it and stick up for me. (You write better than I talk.) When my letter didn't appear in the paper, I felt defeated and I lost my will to fight. The next month I was pregnant.

Now I am depressed and miserable. I'm afraid that after this baby is born, Jack will talk me into having a fourth, and then I will really take the gas pipe. I feel so helpless.

Please, Ann, tell me what to do. The pills were no good for me and Jack won't get a vasectomy. — Three's A Crowd

Dear Crowd: Ask your doctor to do a tubal ligation (tie your tubes) when your third child is born. It's a simple procedure and will free you from the worry of pregnancy for the rest of your life. For a woman who didn't want a third child, four is too many.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm sorry the ink is blurred but I'm crying on the paper. My boyfriend disgraced himself, and I need your help.

Mom baked a Boston cream pie. I offered Ollie a slice and he said, "Let me cut my own." So I let him. He cut himself like half the pie. I thought my mother's eyeballs would fall out of her head. After he ate that big hunk he said, "Gee, that was good. I think I'll have just another small piece." Then he cut himself a normal slice.

When he left, Mom said, "Don't let me see that hog over here again." What can I do? — Tears In Tulsa.

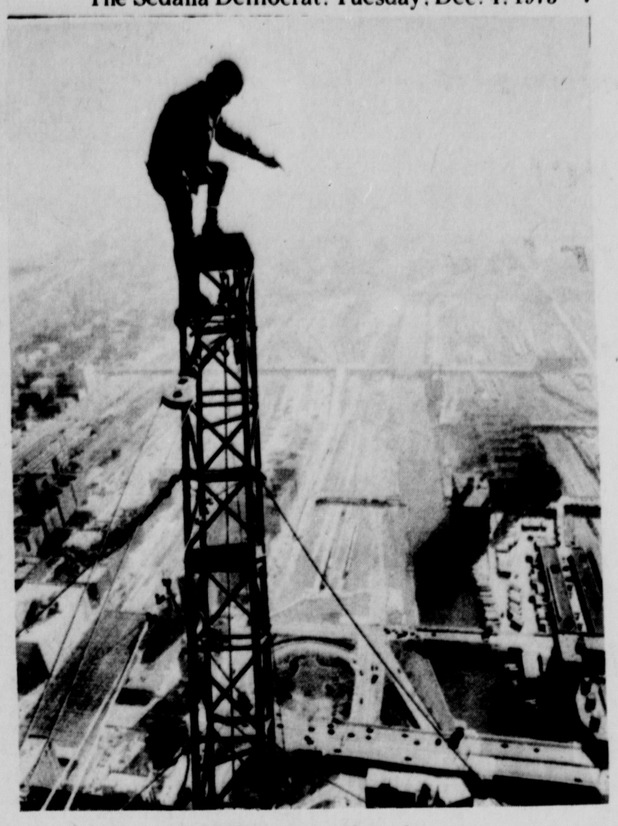

Dear Tears: You can teach the hog some manners. And until you are sure he has learned, serve him — don't let him help himself. P.S. I hope you mom gives him another chance.

To resume salvage of junk cars

CHOUTEAU ISLAND, Ill. (AP) — An agreement was reached late Monday between the Madison County Sheriff's Department and a Granite City diving firm that will enable salvage operations at what has been described as a submerged junkyard for stolen cars off this Mississippi River island to resume Wednesday.

Detective John Kulaza, who has been in charge of the investigation into the circumstances that led to more than 100 cars being dumped into the river just north of St. Louis, said salvage operations will be handled by the East Side Divers Supply, who will share in proceeds from the salvage of the cars with the Waggoner Trucking Co.

Only ten of the vehicles were pulled to the surface after the underwater auto graveyard was discovered early last month before the sheriff's department halted operations because it could not afford to pay the divers.

Since the original cache of submerged vehicles was discovered, divers have found two more dumping areas nearby that could increase the total number of cars in the river to more than 200.

Anderson picks off four in Miami win

MIAMI (AP) — "We caught a team that was frothing at the mouth," said Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll after the Miami Dolphins bolted to a 30-3 halftime lead on five pass interceptions before emerging with a 30-26 National Football League victory over the Steelers Monday night.

The loss was Pittsburgh's third in a row and dropped the Steelers into a tie with Cleveland and Cincinnati for first place in the American Football Conference's Central Division.

Pittsburgh and Cincinnati have 8-4 records with Cleveland 7-3-2. All have .667 percentages.

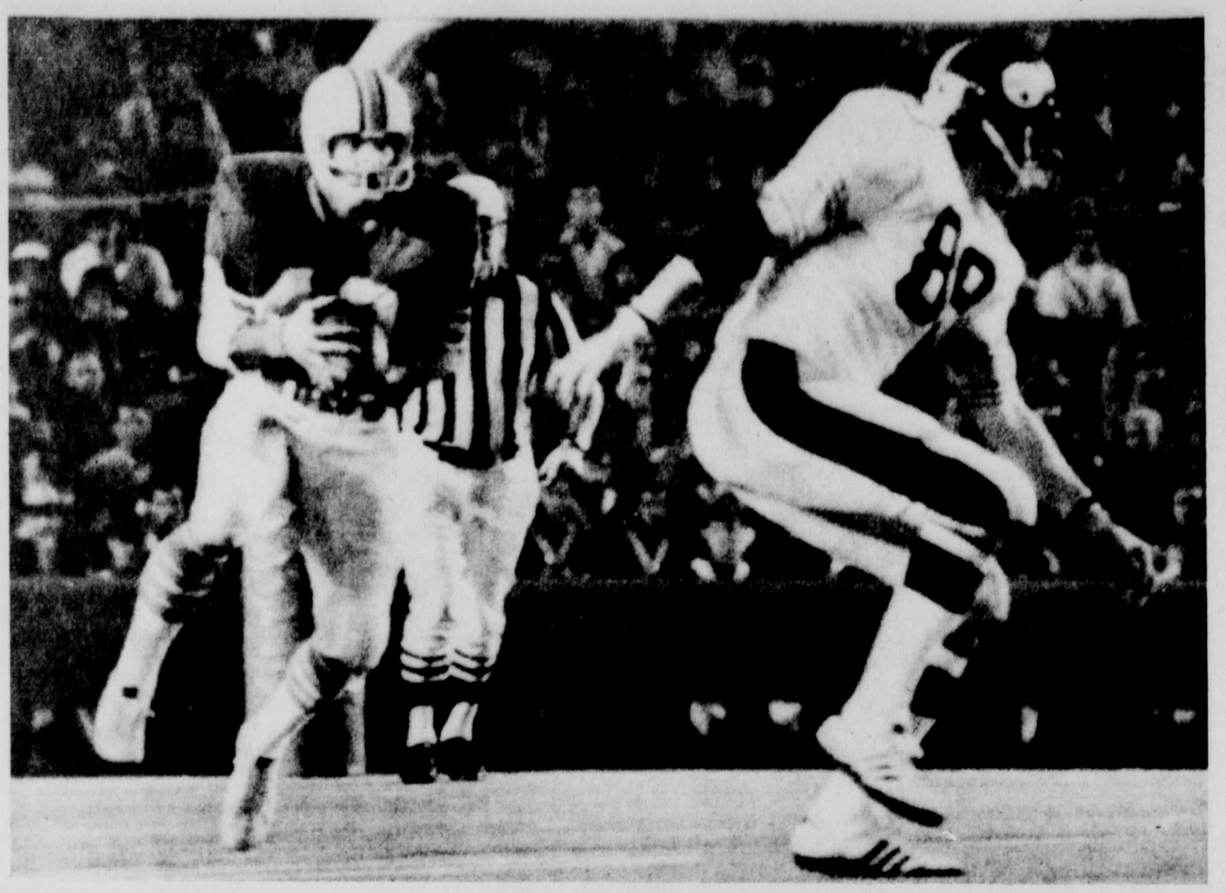

Four interceptions by Miami safety Dick Anderson proved decisive in the nationally televised game. He returned two of them 27 and 38 yards, respectively, for touchdowns. He also took a third 31 yards to the Steeler three to set up a two-yard scoring pass from quarterback Bob Griese to tight end Jim Mandich.

The only other scores by the Dolphins were on field goals of 28, 46 and 14 yards by Garo Yepremian, the first after an interception by Curtis Johnson. Pittsburgh held Miami's offense to eight first downs, only one of them in the second half.

Anderson's four steals tied the league single-game record but he said he rated his 1972 interception and 62-yard touchdown return against Baltimore in the 1972 AFC title game as a greater thrill.

The Steelers' last hope for victory died after Miami coach Don Shula ordered Griese to run into the end zone for a two-point safety rather than punt with 1:04 left to play. Larry Seiple followed with an 80-yard free kick which put Pittsburgh on its own seven and safety Jake Scott followed with Miami's sixth interception.

The Steelers were held to a 37-yard field goal by Roy Gerela in the first half. They stormed back into contention on a five-yard pass from Bradshaw to Preston Pearson, a 21-yard run by Franco Harris and a 17-yard pass from Bradshaw to Pearson.

Big 10 representatives back Commissioner Duke

CHICAGO (AP) — The big controversy over the Big Ten selecting Ohio State to represent the conference in the Rose Bowl game was abated Monday by the policy-making Faculty Representatives who opened their winter meetings.

The Faculty Representatives gave Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke a vote of confidence and indirectly reprimanded Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler.

Schembechler, after his Michigan Wolverines had played Ohio State to a 10-10 tie, accused Duke of having influenced athletic directors in voting for Ohio State as the bowl representative. The tie-breaking vote was said to be 6-4 in favor of Ohio State.

Michigan quarterback Dennis Franklin suffered a broken collarbone in the game and Schembechler had charged that Duke used the injury to get the athletic directors to vote for Ohio State.

In view of the circumstances, the Faculty Representatives directed Duke to take whatever action deemed proper regarding any "unsportsmanlike conduct" after the group held a hearing involving Duke and the athletic directors on the Rose Bowl question.

The representatives issued a statement which said they found "no evidence whatever that the commissioner 'engineered' or in any way influenced the vote of the directors of athletics."

Following the day-long meeting, Duke said there was no discussion about revising the Big Ten's policy of selecting the "most representative team" to compete in the Rose Bowl.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK (AP) — John Cappelletti, Penn State's All American running back, won the Heisman Trophy today as the outstanding college football player of 1973.

Cappelletti, a 6-foot-1, 215-pound senior from Upper Darby, Pa., received 1,057 points, including 229 first-place votes, from the nationwide panel of 819 sports writers and broadcasters who participated in the balloting, conducted by the Downtown Athletic Club of New York.

Offense tackle John Hicks of Ohio State was second with 524 points, including 114 first-place votes. Third was running back Roosevelt Leaks of Texas, with 482 points, followed by quarterback David Jaynes of Kansas, with 394, and running back Archie Griffin of Ohio State, with 326.

Royals get Briles from Pittsburgh

HOUSTON (AP) — The Kansas City Royals acquired veteran pitcher Nelson Briles from the Pittsburgh Pirates Tuesday in a five-player trade.

In exchange for Briles and minor league infielder Fernando Gonzalez, the Pirates got catcher Ed Kirkpatrick, infielder Kurt Bevacqua and minor league first baseman Winston Cole.

Cards give 2nd-seeded Cole Camp scare in first round of tourney

By WARREN RIPLEY
Staff Sportswriter

WARSAW — The Second-seeded Cole Camp Blue Birds survived two shots in the last four seconds of play by seventh-seeded Lincoln to squeak into the semifinals with a 40-39 thriller here Monday, in the opening round of the Warsaw Invitational Tournament.

Third-seeded LaMonte utilized a three-prong attack to overcome a surprisingly tough Windsor squad, 70-41, in the night's other contest.

Donnie Hitaffer and Larry Whitworth kept the Vikes in the game as the sixth-seeded 'Hounds led throughout most of the first half, until teammate Buggar Bennett heated up for 16 points in the third period. He missed only one field goal attempt during the quarter.

In the first game, Lincoln stunned the Blue Birds by taking command of the first half, moving out to a 19-17 halftime advantage.

The third stanza saw the Blue Birds lead most of the way, but Lincoln managed to knot the score at 30-all by the start of the final period.

With the fourth period half gone, Cole Camp forward Danny Schnell made a crucial follow-up tip-in shot to give the Blue Birds a 36-33 lead.

With 2:40 left, however, the Cards regained the lead 37-36. Thirty ticks later, Cole Camp forward Del Brandes worked himself open inside to give the lead back to his team, 38-37. The Big Blue then scored another bucket to give Cole Camp a three-point lead. But with one minute and five seconds left in the match Lincoln pulled to within one point, 40-39.

Cole Camp then elected to freeze the ball in an attempt to stall out the remaining time. With 16 seconds left, Harry Goosen attempted a shot which trickled off the edge of the basket into the hands of the eager Cardinals, who immediately called time-out.

Lincoln's plan was for scoring leader Ron Ingram to take the last shot. The sophomore guard manuevered for his shot and was forced to shoot slightly off-balance by the Cole Camp defense. The shot bounced off the rim before dropping out where Scott Nevius of Lincoln and Brandes tied it up.

Nevius outjumped Brandes on the tip batting the ball to teammate Joe Reser who attempted a 30-footer which fell short sending the Blue Birds into the semifinals Friday against LaMonte.

Windsor led 20-13 over the favored Vikings at the end of the first period in their game. In the second period, LaMonte rallied behind the scoring of Whitworth and Hitaffer. Whitworth converted a three-point play to pull the Vikes to within one with two minutes gone in the second quarter. Hitaffer stole the ball seconds later and scored to give the Norsemen the lead for the first time since early in the contest.

The third quarter saw Kaysinger Conference scoring leader Bennett rip off three straight buckets and eight of nine field goal attempts as the Vikings outscored the Greyhounds, 26-5.

The Vikings also held their opponents to only six points in the final period as they raised their overall mark to 4-2.

Tonight, Warsaw and Lincoln meet in the girls volleyball division at 7:30 p.m. Basketball action resumes at 8:30 p.m. with a game between fourth-seeded and host Warsaw and Stover.

All of Wednesday night's action is in the volleyball division.

The Smith-Cotton sophomore basketball team opened the season with an easy 61-41 victory over Warrensburg at home Monday night.

The Tigers, who led at the half, 26-18, blew the game wide open with a 17-6 scoring edge in the third period.

Bill Rabourn and Doug Slagel led the Tigers with 13 and 12 points respectively.

Bill Carter topped all scorers, tossing in 16 for Warrensburg.

Scouts tougher defensively

Roadrunners visit Penn Valley

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

"I'll guarantee you one thing," Penn Valley Community College basketball coach Fred Pohlman told a State Fair Community College administrator recently, "you all won't beat us three times this year like you did last season."

Pohlman and the Penn Valley Scouts will get their first shot at the Roadrunners tonight in Kansas City, when one of the bitterest JuCo rivalries is renewed in the Scouts' new home on the Penn Valley campus.

State Fair won both home-and-home encounters last year between the two teams. In addition, SFCC knocked Penn Valley out of contention in the Region XVI Playoffs.

"They always worry me," said SFCC Coach Bill Barton prior to Monday's light workout, "especially when we play them up there . . . we never seem to get the breaks, if you know what I mean."

State Fair, now 4-3, has reached an important part in the season, according to Barton. "We've got six more games before the Christmas break — three here and three on the road. It's important that we at least get this one in Kansas City and pick up three wins at home so we can go into the break with a respectable record."

Penn Valley, which in past seasons has been about as disorganized as a Chinese fire drill, has been playing tougher defense, something that worries Barton tremendously. "We looked terrible against Hutchinson's defense at times the other night . . . Penn Valley will go basically man-to-man, and they've given us trouble in the past. It used to be the disorganization they operated out of bothered us, but with them playing strong defensively, that may even bother us more," he said.

Three sophomores and a pair of freshmen make up the Scouts' starting lineup. Pat Murphy, a southpaw sophomore gunner from Kansas City Van Horn will be Barton's biggest thorn. Murphy, a 6-4 forward, is the team's best shooter and rebounder. "We've got to keep him off the boards and put some pressure on his outside shooting," the SFCC mentor said.

Teaming with Murphy on the front line is Robert Caldwell (6-4) another hard-nosed rebounder. He's a sophomore from Kansas City East.

Shreveport, La., freshman Henry Green (6-7) has won the center spot. Green boards well and is a good shooter from 15-17 feet out.

Mickey Murphy, a sophomore from Raytown, and freshman John Darnell from Danville, Ill., make up the backcourt. Both are quick and handle the ball well.

The Scouts' reserve list includes a former Sedalia Sacred Heart player, freshman Bill Freund.

Barton is considering a shake-up in tonight's starting lineup. Billy Townes, a freshman from St. Louis, may start in backcourt with sophomore Jack Easley. Townes has performed well in a substitute role, while Jerry Bybee has had his troubles in the scoring department.

Barton's reserve strength at guard was reduced to only two Monday, when freshman Bob Smith quit the team. "He didn't feel like basketball was giving him what he wanted," Barton said in Monday's squad meeting of Smith's departure.

Front-liners Charles Shell and Colles Webb, the team's leading scorers and rebounders to date, will again start in the forward positions. However, neither will probably be at full speed. Shell, who is averaging 20.6 points and 11-plus rebounds per game, has been slowed by a leg strain.

Webb, who follows Shell in both scoring (15.0) and rebounding (6.6), is just getting over the flu.

Stan McNeill, 6-9, will start in the post.

Following tonight's battle in Kansas City, which is scheduled to get underway at 7:30 p.m., the Roadrunners will return to the Agriculture Building on the Missouri State Fairgrounds Thursday for a contest with Trenton Junior College.

Also on this week's schedule is a Saturday night home game Highland, Kan.

Green Ridge on four-game streak

Calhoun seeks to stop Tigers

With most of the area basketball activity concentrated in Warsaw at the Wildcats' invitational tourney, only two Kaysinger Conference teams will see action tonight in non-tournament games.

Calhoun will be out to stop Green Ridge's four-game winning streak at the latter's home court in one of those games. The Tigers are one of the hottest clubs in the league, sporting a 6-1 overall record.

Calhoun will be the third Golden Valley Conference team to face the red-hot Tigers so far this season. The other two — Deepwater and Leeton — caught the brunt of Green Ridge's offense. Deepwater lost, 84-60, in the Tigers' first game of the year. Friday night, Leeton was bombed by second-year coach Larry Barb's squad, 91-55.

Kent Scotten, a 5-11 senior guard, leads the potent Tigers' offensive attack with a 15-point average. Two other players are averaging in double figures with 11.0 marks — John Dove and Mike Profitt.

Green Ridge is leading the Kaysinger Conference in offense with a 72.6 per game average, 15 points a game higher than they have yielded defensively.

The other non-conference match-up tonight places Otterville at Northwest. Otterville has played only one Kaysinger Conference team to date. That was Thursday in the seventh-place game of the Tipton Tournament, when Sedalia Sacred Heart nosed out a 65-58 victory.

Northwest will be out to stop a five-game losing streak. Northwest is only one of two Kaysinger teams still seeking a victory. Alan Meyer and Kerry Schroeder have been two of the bright spots offensively for second-year coach Ed Scrogin. Meyer is among the top scorers in the lieague with a 17.4 average. Schroeder, a 6-0 junior, follows with a mark of 15.2.

Three repeat

Pitt freshman heads All-America squad

NEW YORK (AP) — The first freshman in 29 years — tailback Tony Dorsett of Pittsburgh — and three repeaters — Randy Gradishar and John Hicks of Ohio State and Richard Wood of Southern California — have been named to The Associated Press All-America college football team for 1973.

The 5-foot-11, 175-pound Dorsett finished as the nation's second leading rusher with 1,586 yards in 11 games as Pitt posted its first winning record in 10 years and first bowl bid since 1956.

The last freshman to win first-team honors was fullback Doc Blanchard of Army in 1944. Blanchard was an All-American three times but graduated from West Point in three years under an accelerated war-time course of study and was not on hand to play as a senior.

Joining Dorsett in the backfield are fullback Roosevelt Leaks of Texas and tailback John Cappelletti of Penn State, who finished fourth and fifth in the national rushing statistics, and quarterback David Jaynes of Kansas, who set six Big Eight Conference passing records.

The AP All-America team will appear on the Bob Hope Special on NBC-TV Dec. 9 at 9 p.m., EST.

Besides the backs and offensive tackle Hicks, the offensive team consists of wide receiver Lynn Swann of Southern California, tight end Andre Tillman of Texas Tech, tackle Buddy Brown of Alabama, guards Tyler Lafauci of Louisiana State and Bill Yoest of North Carolina State and center Bill Wyman of Texas.

Joining linebackers Gradishar and Wood on the defensive team are ends Pat Donovan of Stanford and Randy White of Maryland, tackles John Dutton of Nebraska and Dave Gallagher of Michigan, middle guard Lucious Selmon of Oklahoma, linebacker Rod Shoate of Oklahoma and secondary men Jimmy Allen of UCLA, Artimus Parker of Southern California and Mike Townsend of Notre Dame.

The team is composed of freshman Dorsett, 16 seniors and five juniors — Wood, Leaks, Donovan, White and Shoate.

Dorsett is unquestionably the greatest freshman running back in history. His 1,586 yards smashed the previous best by a freshman — 1,291 by New Mexico State's Po James in 1968. His 265 yards against Northwestern in his third varsity game was the best performance ever by a freshman and his 209 yards against nationally ranked Notre Dame were the most ever allowed by a Notre Dame team.

Penn State Coach Joe Paterno calls Cappelletti "the best player I've ever been around."

The 6-1, 215-pounder carried 286 times for 1,522 yards and 16 touchdowns and also caught 22 passes for 207 yards and a touchdown.

Leaks, a bone-crunching 220-pounder, led Texas to its sixth consecutive Southwest Conference championship with a league record 1,415 yards, including a brilliant 342-yard game against Southern Methodist, only eight yards shy of the national one-game mark.

Jaynes completed 172 of 330 passes for 2,131 yards and 13 touchdowns and was intercepted only nine times, one of the best interception ratios ever. His finest performance came in a 28-27 loss to nationally ranked Tennessee when he connected on 35 of 58 passes for 394 yards. He holds every Kansas passing mark but one.

The most notorious names on the defensive unit are Selmon, teammate Shoate and Wood.

Coach Barry Switzer calls Selmon "the greatest down lineman we've ever had here, and we've had some really great ones."

Two named from Oklahoma

Jaynes heads group of four All-Americans from Big Eight

NEW YORK (AP) — Four Big Eight Conference players, three seniors and a junior, are included in the Associated Press All-America college football team, including David Jaynes of Kansas at the most prestigeous position of all, quarterback.

Jaynes was the conference's only offensive star named to the AP's first team.

On defense, tackle John Dutton of Nebraska and middle guard Lucious Selmon and Linebacker Rod Shoate of Oklahoma were named to the first team.

Nine Big Eight players were among those selected to the first three teams with conference champion Oklahoma landing four spots.

The second team tabbed Nebraska tackle Daryl White on offense and Oklahoma State linebacker Cleveland Vann.

The third team included Missouri center Scott Anderson, Oklahoma running back Joe Washington and Oklahoma safety Randy Hughes.

Jaynes, expected to go high in the pro draft, completed 172 of 330 passes this season for 2,131 yards and 13 touchdowns. The Bonner Springs, Kan., native was intercepted only nine times, one of the best interception ratios in college football history. His most impressive performance came in a losing cause to nationally ranked Tennessee when he connected on 35 of 58 aerials for 394 yards. He holds every Kansas passing mark but one.

Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer says Selmon is the greatest down lineman in the U.S.

"He's the best we've ever had here, and we've had some really great ones," Switzer said. "On one series against Missouri he tackled the quarterback three times himself. He held them up on sweeps, recovered a fumble, did everyrhing."

Selmon had the distinction this year of playing between his two younger brothers, sophomores Dewey and LeRoy, on the defensive line.

Shoate, a junior is described by Switzer as resembling a guided missile.

"Swoosh' and he's got the ball carrier," Switzer said. "He's intelligent and a great open-field tackler. And he's mean. He tries to hurt people." Shoate is the fastest man on the Oklahoma team over 40 yards.

Jim Hart

Cards may be without Hart for rest of year

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals, licking their wounds after suffering their eighth loss of the season Sunday to the Detroit Lions, 20-16, may have lost quarterback Jim Hart for the rest of the season, Coach Don Coryell said Monday.

The 29-year-old Hart, who has already suffered injuries to his right arm and left side this season, was hurt twice as he tried to steer his National Football League club out of a four-game winless spell Sunday.

Coryell said Hart was forced out of action when hit by Detroit tackle Herb Orvis late in the first half and then later had to retire from the contest when hit again midway through the third quarter.

"It was a real rough ball game," Coryell said. "They went after our quarterback and they got him."

Although Hart was sacked only once in the game, he was hit several times after releasing passes.

"Hart got more hits than many quarterbacks get in a season," Coryell said of the battering his quarterback took Sunday. "He's pretty durable to even be walking around."

Although the extent of his most recent injuries was not expected to be known until later, Hart was listed as doubtful for the Cardinals final two games, Sunday in Atlanta against the Falcons and Dec. 16 in St. Louis against the Dallas Cowboys.

Phils, Braves open wild trading session

HOUSTON (AP) — They're pitching and wooing at the winter baseball meetings.

The Philadelphia Phillies and Atlanta Braves scored first, triggering a cluster of trades in the very first inning Monday, and promised more swinging this week.

"We will still try to make another trade or two," said Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark after obtaining pitcher Ron Schueler from Atlanta for shortstop Craig Robinson and pitcher Barry Lersch.

The first trade was announced a half-hour before the annual winter draft which signaled the official start of the December extravaganza.

And the explosive deals that followed the Phillies-Braves announcement reflected a climate similar to last year's affair at Honolulu, when a record 67 players were traded in 20 deals.

In all, 10 major league players were swapped in four trades Monday, after the Phillies and Braves completed their announcement, these deals were revealed:

—The Oakland A's sent Horacio Pina to the Chicago Cubs for Bob Locker in a trade of right-handed relief pitchers.

—The Houston Astros dealt reliever Jim Ray and utility infielder Gary Sutherland to the Detroit Tigers for right-handed pitcher Fred Scherman.

—The Chicago White Sox received Mexican League righthanders Francisco Barrios and Manuel Lugo from the Jalisco club for infielder Rudy Hernandez, who moved from Iowa in the American Association to Mexico.

—The Astros traded Cecil Upshaw to the Cleveland Indians for Jerry Johnson in an exchange of relievers.

Pitching, which is theoretically the dominating factor in baseball, was the dominating commodity Monday. Every trade involved a pitcher — and the Phillies naturally thought they got a pretty good one.

Schueler, who became a starter for Atlanta halfway through the 1973 season, had an 8-7 won-lost record and a 3.87 earned run average. Lersch, a reliever and spot starter, had a 3-6 record and 4.41 ERA. Robinson batted .226 for the Phillies after being called up in midseason.

Locker, who reportedly refused to play for the Cubs for personal reasons, was dispatched to the World Champion A's not long after the first trade of the busy day. The right-hander, who once pitched in an Oakland uniform, compiled a more impressive record than Pina last season — a 10-6 won-lost mark with a 2.55 ERA.

Scherman was the No. 1 relief pitcher in Detroit before John Hiller took over last year. Scherman had a 2-2 record with a 4.23 ERA and one save in 1973. Ray was 6-4 with six saves in Houston while Sutherland, a suberb defensive second baseman, batted .294 at Denver of the American Association.

Upshaw split last year with Atlanta and Houston, posting a 2-4 record 4.93 ERA and one save. Johnson, a former National Leaguer with Philadelphia, St. Louis and San Francisco, had a 5-6 record, 6.18 ERA and five saves.

S-C opens soccer season Wednesday

"It's not often that you open the season with the biggest game of the year," said Smith-Cotton soccer coach Paul McNally Tuesday morning of his season opener Wednesday afternoon in Jennie Jaynes Stadium.

S-C, which played only its third season of Metro Soccer League competition last year, is the defending league champion. The Tigers posted a 14-1-2 season's record in 1972-73, including three wins over Kansas City Rockhurst, Wednesday's opening-season game.

The Tigers return three all-Metro League players to head McNally's lineup. Those include fullback Bill Buchholtz, inside-left Aaron Johnson and one of the league's leading scorers, Jim Huff.

Other starters from last year's club who will get the call for Wednesday's 4 p.m. game include Joe Gerlecz, fullback; Chris Kempf, forward; and David Hausam, halfback.

McNally also tabbed Mark Stockstill and Tim McMullen as starting halfbacks.

The goalie combination of John Drenon and Steve Wilcox, both of whom shared the goaltending responsibilities last year, return.

Randy Johnson has won the outside-left position, while Greg Stover and Greg Hopper are still battling it out for the other fullback spot.

Two promising freshmen — Mike Kreisel and Duane Kohl — have drawn praise from McNally, who enters his second year as the head coach at Smith-Cotton, the only out-state high school in Missouri with an interscholastic soccer program.

"We've got a lot of depth and experience," McNally noted, pointing toward the ability of Mark Wheeler, Randy Patrick, David Thompson, Steve Paul, Mark Anderson and David Wingerter.

Rockhurst will be out to avenge three straight shutouts the Hawks sustained last year against the Tigers. S-C defeated Rockhurst, 2-0 and 1-0 in league play last season. In addition, Smith-Cotton won the Kansas City-area finals of the Missouri State High School Activities Association's state playoffs over Rockhurst, 1-0, on a penalty shot by Huff.

Also on the Tigers' schedule this week is a Saturday home game with Kansas City Pembroke Country-Day at 1 p.m.

Jr. High Grems run basketball mark to 2-0

GREEN RIDGE — Sedalia Sacred Heart and Green Ridge split in junior high school basketball and volleyball action here Monday night.

The visiting Gremlins won the basketball game, 39-20, behind the 11-point performance of Gary Weller. Cliff Dove and Rick Kreisel each netted six to lead Green Ridge.

Sacred Heart now stands at 2-0 in junior high action; Green Ridge's record is at .500, 1-1.

In volleyball action, the Tigers won in two straight matches, 15-6, 15-11. Janet Brownfield accounted for 11 points in the opener for Green Ridge; she added nine more in the second match.

Today's hand was played at New York's Cavendish Club some 40 years ago.

The bidding was simple, but would go the same way today in any sort of game. Some hands just bid automatically.

West opened the ace of hearts and continued the suit. East won that second trick with his queen and led the king.

South ruffed with the queen at which point West made a remark that has given a particularly bad play a name it still holds.

West plopped on the king and remarked, "No better place for it."

He was partly right. From declarer's standpoint there was no better place for his. South won the diamond return; drew trumps with two leads and chalked up game and rubber.

West did have a much better place for that king of trumps. He should have kept it right in his hand. Later on when South played trumps West would still collect a trick with the king, but he would score another and the setting trick with his ten spot.

What's more, when West overruffed he should have seen that a discard would insure two trump tricks for him. He might well have seen this if he had just concentrated on the play and not bothered to talk.

Is 50 m.p.h. speed limit another Prohibition?

By TOM TIEDE

NEW YORK — When the speed limit was reduced to 50 m.p.h. on New Jersey's highways early this month, a policeman stopped a truck driver going a flat-out 75. When the cop reminded the trucker of the energy crisis, the driver snapped: "The hell with the energy crisis, pal. I got a schedule to keep."

So goes the answer to the presidential plea for "some sacrifice by some Americans" during the worsening oil shortage. Authorities in several states report some general slowing down, on a volunteer basis, but, says a highway patrol officer in Pennsylvania, "I wouldn't say the response has been overwhelming."

By all measures, the response to sacrifice must be overwhelming if U.S. drivers are not to be slowed down by something other than speed limit modifications or volunteerism. Dick Rawley of the Federal Highway Administration says that automobiles account for 25 per cent of fuel oil consumption in the nation and stiffer regulations, if they come, will surely be in this oil use area.

There seems no doubt that significant gasoline savings are possible — and with a minimum of public suffering. Gulf Oil research and development engineers, for instance, say that late model engines traveling at 70 m.p.h. average 13.9 miles per gallon of gas vs. 19.6 miles for speeds of 40.

The Highway Administration is even more optimistic about slowdown savings. Thus Norbert Tiemann, the federal highway administrator, believes 50 m.p.h. speeds could reduce fuel use 5 per cent across the nation — enough to compensate for the current U.S. oil production shortfall.

Yet it's apparent there is opposition abuilding to the presidential call for lower speeds. The fact is only too obvious on the roads today. Though auto speed is as risky as it is wasteful (27 per cent of all fatal highway accidents are caused by excessive speed), though the National Safety Council says that a driver's chances of highway death double with each 10 m.p.h. increase in acceleration, Americans zip about with abandon. A recent check of a stretch of the New York Thruway indicated half the cars going in excess of 75; drivers in the rural highways of North Dakota go 90 and 95 without a care.

Some of the opposition to lower speeds, actually, is not real resistance but philosophic criticism. The American Automobile Association, while not objecting to reduced speeds, says that high speeds do not play the major statistical role in the excessive use of highway fuel. Kay Aldus of the AAA says studies indicate 75 per cent of all auto trips are 10 miles or less in distance, there "most people don't get up to 70 m.p.h."

The AAA believes that driver skill and mechanical excellence are far better guarantors of fuel economy. A Michigan AAA test indicates that poor driving habits — jackrabbit starts, uneven speeds and needless braking — can be responsible for as much as 44 per cent of vehicle fuel loss. The Minnesota AAA adds that its own studies indicate drivers can cut fuel use 25 per cent (plus save $100 a year in costs) with frequent engine tuneups.

But if the AAA wants mainly to supplement the call for reduced highway speeds, other organizations want only to condemn it. Bus industry spokesmen, as example, say most of their intercity vehicles are engineered for maximum efficiency at 65 m.p.h. Accordingly, says L. H. Warwick, vice president of Trailways: "If our buses run at 50, they'll be in third gear." Warwick's ironic conclusion is that buses use more gas at 50 than 65.

Then there are the truckers. Perhaps the most vocal of the reduced speed opponents. A spokesman for the American Trucking Association says the entire industry has been set up around the 65 m.p.h. speed limit. Terminals are thus far apart, safety regulations (maximum work time for drivers) are so balanced.

"We could live with a 60 m.p.h. limit, but 50 would destroy us," the spokesman says. "It would make one day's trip into two, it would upset everything." And so, adds a driver, angrily, "I don't see the need to slow down and, dammit, I ain't gonna do it."

No one knows for certain, but the belief is the latter opinion dominates the nation. Says a DOT official: "There is no way the American people are going to slow down easily." This official, then, believes the necessary slowdown must come hard:

"You have to hit people in the pocketbook. I believe gas will soon cost 75 cents a gallon, and it will probably be rationed, because that way a man has no choice — he goes slow or he goes broke or he runs out. It's the only way we can get through this period."

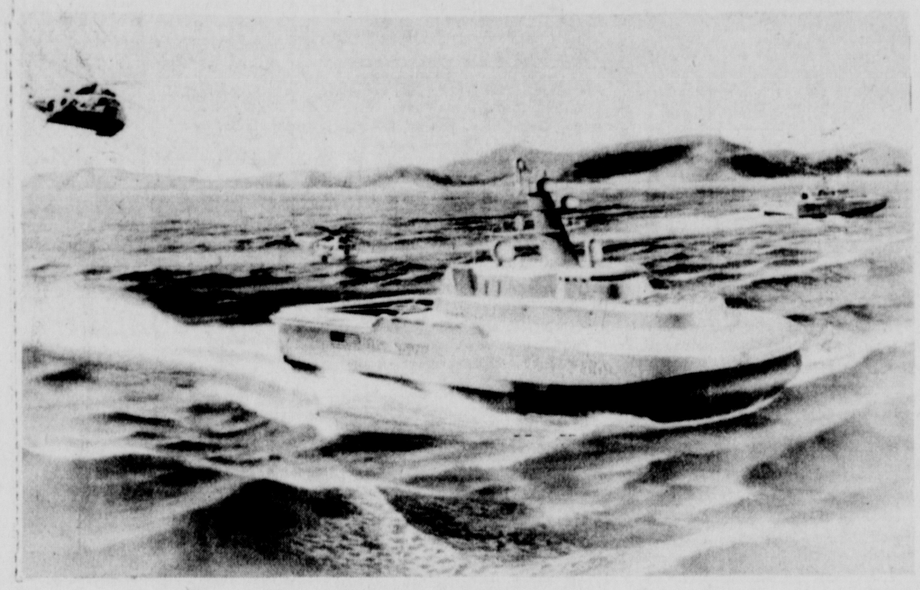

Perhaps it is the only way. Then again, the appeal to better judgments, without mandates, is still not dead. The same New Jersey cop who handled the rocketing, recalcitrant truck driver says he's also had to stop an increasing number of people for going too slow! "One lady was doing 25 on the Turnpike. When I told her to go faster she looked at me as if I was unpatriotic."

Showdown near?

Jim Langdon, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, which regulates the Texas petroleum industry, speaking to delegates to the Interstate Oil Compact Commission, said Tuesday the federal government and state regulatory agencies could be headed toward a showdown over control of oil production. Langdon says there is proposed U.S. legislation that would force some Texas oil fields to produce more than the Texas Railroad Commission regulations allow. (UPI)

Speed entry

This artist's view shows the Lockheed Missiles and Space Co. entry in the Navy's fast warship competition. Called a surface-effects ship (SES) because it rides a captured air bubble, this 2,000-ton version may be the forerunner of larger Navy vessels. Lockheed and three other firms have completed nine months of preliminary design studies of such ships. The SES, at least twice as fast as current fast Navy ships, is expected to have a role in anti-submarine warfare plus other missions. (UPI)

Economists attempt to flatten up-down cycles

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Whether they like it or not, economists are always looking at cycles of ups and downs because, as almost nobody fails to understand today, that's the way the economy bounces.

In fact, the greatest single effort of economists since the days of the depression of the 1930s has been to flatten out these cycles and thereby lessen the damage of inflation and unemployment.

In the early 1960s there was considerable confidence in their ability to do so, to "fine tune" the economy, as they put it, and for a few years it seemed to succeed. But then the convolutions recurred.

Wise economists today feel far less able to tell monetary and fiscal authorities how to run a smooth economy. They mightn't like to admit it, but a good many believe the world's economies will always be a merry-go-round.

That is, when one nation's economy is high another's might be low, the result of different economic policies, temporary trade advantages, changes in the demand for goods, the availability of labor, and so on.

But now, oddly enough, all the horses seem to be descending together, just as they ascended in unison and remained high over the past few years. They went up together and now they seem to be falling together.

Students of cycles claim they haven't seen such a pattern since the late 1920s.

The fact is that almost all the world's great industrial nations are suffering from serious inflation—in some instances far worse than in the United States. Most are seeking to slow their economies. Most have falling stock markets.

This was so even before the Mideast oil cutback caused economists everywhere to sharpen the economic declines they already had forecast. They expected an easy descent and a bounce; now they're not sure.

Talk of a worldwide recession is more common in informal discussions than in the more considered, published forecasts that have been issued. One economy's decline, they fear, could reinforce that of another.

The United States, for instance, appears finally to have corrected its trade imbalance. This is, it has arrested the condition in which dollars were flowing out because imports exceeded exports.

Now that the United States finally is selling more abroad than it imports, the economists note, the strength of the dollar is improving. But then they make a second observation:

If America's trading partners fall into a recession, how will they be able to buy American goods? If foreign economies are down, if workers are without jobs, where will the buying power come from?

Postal Service issues letter bomb warnings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some government agencies and major oil companies have been warned by the U.S. Postal Service that letter bombs may have been mailed to them.

A spokesmen for the postal inspection service said the agency has offered to screen the mail of possible targets. He declined to say to whom the letters may have been mailed.

Despite this information, however, the spokesman said the service had "no indication any letter bombs are in the mail."

"The agencies and oil companies were contacted purely as a precautionary measure," said spokesman Bernie Roswig.

Roswig said that in its normal course of contacts with other government agencies the postal service received information that "letters containing explosives might be mailed from Toronto around Dec. 1."

He said the initial information came from the "intelligence community."

"Anytime they (the inspection service) have any kind of tip that a letter bomb is in the mail system, they not only alert possible targets but put on a monitoring apparatus that goes beyond a simple alert," Roswig said.

He said he could not confirm whether such an alert was in operation, but added "I wouldn't be a bit surprised" if it were.

Canadian postal official Ed Roworth in Toronto said officials there are aware of the "possibility of mail bombs."

Robert Yancey, president of Ashland Oil Co., said he was notified of the possible threat Saturday night. He said it's "probably just a prank" but added the firm will begin using metal detectors Monday.

Turndown of business may help public TV

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Although the nation's economy may slow dramatically next year if the Arab oil cut-off continues, there probably won't be a reduction in business support for nationally-broadcast programs on public television.

That's the tentative word from Ward Chamberlin Jr., a senior vice president at the Public Broadcasting Service. He even says the possible business downturn might help public TV.

"It's really sheer speculation at this point, but it may be an advantage to us in a certain way," he said.

"There may be certain businesses that want to keep their names before the public in a certain way, yet still won't want to go into great big advertising programs on commercial television."

The "certain way" to which he referred is the corporate underwriting of national public TV programs, which he said totalled about $5 million this season, slightly above last season's corporate effort.

A corporation isn't allowed to advertise on public TV.

But when it helps underwrite PBS shows, the aid is noted in a brief announcement at the start and end of the program. It usually says "this program was made possible in part by" the corporation helping pick up the tab.

Major underwriters this year have included Exxon, Mobil, Eastman Kodak, IBM, Xerox, Bristol-Myers, 3-M, General Telephone and McDonalds. They helped pay for shows ranging from "Zoom" to "Theater in America."

The underwriting, done to help build the company's public image, is a relatively small slice of the $35 million spent last year on national public TV shows, said Chamberlin, noting that most of the money came from foundations and federal sources.

"But it's significant to us because any amount is small when you look at the over-all funding of public television throughout the country," he said. "It cost us about $180 million over-all last season to keep this system running."

Chamberlin, who deals with the corporations in trying to develop private support for national public TV programming, doubted the possible economic slowdown next year will force them to reduce their financial support in the 1974-75 season.

"I don't think there's going to be any cutbacks, as far as I can see," he said. "Our objective is going to be to interest new corporations, not just rely on the 15 or so corporations which so far have been the basic (business) support of national programming in public television."

However, he added, "I think if anything it may be a little harder to interest new companies into coming into public television next year. It may be more difficult to bring new companies into the fold."

River in Missouri included in action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eleven Point River in Missouri is one of several waterways included in House action providing a five-year extention of a ban on water projects that might harm the stream.

Each of the streams listed is under consideration for inclusion in the Wild and Scenic Rivers System.

The legislation passed Monday by the House also increases the allocations authorized for land acquisition from $17 million to a proposed $37.6 million.

A total of $4.9 million was earmarked for the Eleven Point and the legislation was shipped off for a conference with the Senate, which has passed a related bill.

WARDS BATTERY PROTECTION PLAN

Montgomery Ward will replace this battery at no cost to the original owner if it fails to accept and hold a charge in non-commercial passenger car use during its 12-month Free Replacement Period. After this period, to the end of its 42-month guarantee period, Montgomery Ward will replace this battery, charging only a pro-rated amount for the time since purchase, based on the current regular selling price less trade-in. Batteries in commercial use are guaranteed on a similar basis or one-half of the specified periods. Commercial use is defined as use in any vehicle for other than family or personal use.
For service under this guarantee, return battery with evidence of date of purchase to any Montgomery Ward branch.
